City urging taxi service improvement

An ordinance increasing taxicab fares in Granite City by 35 cents was placed on first reading by the City Council Tuesday night, but the aldermen warned that the bill will not be placed on final passage until the city's only taxi company "cleans up its operation."

Council members apparently were prepared to pass the measure when it first was presented by Alderman Paul Flisk as chairman of the ordinance committee, but reports of complaints about the condition of some cabs and "housekeeping" at the firm's office on Rock Road near the railroad tracks resulted in a long discussion and the decision not to give final passage at this time.

The ordinance was prepared on the recommendation of the council's traffic committee headed by Alderman Roy Poulos. It establishes tax fare increases of 35 cents in each of the first five travel zones, raising the minimum cab fare to $1.50 and the maximum in the fifth zone to $2.50.

The traffic committee recommended the fare increase following conferences several weeks ago with Vernon McIntyre, operator of the Checker Cab Co., who told the aldermen that increased gasoline costs and other expenses have prevented the company from making improvements and obtaining better equipment.

After Flisk presented the ordinance, he moved for a suspension of the rules to place the bill on final passage. In subsequent discussion, Alderman Earl Baker of the Sixth Ward said he was not

Board considering elective offices—Clerk

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

After receiving a warning from the Madison County Board's Finance Committee that the circuit clerk's office will exceed its budget this fiscal year if spending is not reduced, Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell told the Press-Record Tuesday that he feels the method of managing the county should be changed.

Portell said he has long supported the idea of full-time elected county commissioners to run the county, rather than "half-hour-a-week County Board members."

"The County Board's finance committee says I may exceed my budget and they want me to reduce the number of people I have. What they do not understand is that revenues in my department are way up, as is the workload, and I need more people and not fewer," Portell stated.

"Commissioners who are here all the time could understand that in the last six years, the revenues from the circuit clerk's office has increased from $20,000 per year to a projected $1.2 million this fiscal year, which requires more work. The caseload has increased eight to 10 percent each year, but the board wants me to operate on fewer and fewer people."

"Six years ago, we had 54 full-time people in the circuit clerk's office. We now have 44 full-time people and have to supplement with two college students and 13 part-time high school students from a work-study program."

"If they would just give me three-fourths of the money my department takes in, we would have a good department. I'm just trying to run a good office here," Portell commented.

"This is not a new idea. I and other elected county officials have felt for years that full-time commissioners to run the county would be much better than the board system. It only makes sense that someone here all the time would understand the county's problems and needs better than someone who only attends a few meetings a month," he added.

He advocated electing three or five full-time commissioners, earning $27,000 or more per year each, and putting them in charge of various departments. "That way you could do away with most appointed department heads and save money," Portell said.

He said the commissioners could be put in charge of administering zoning, the county nursing home, parks and recreation and other departments which now require appointed department heads. "You wouldn't even need an administrative assistant to the county board chairman," Portell said.

"If you consider the per diem payments for board meetings and committee meetings, the mileage and other expenses paid the 29 County board members, plus the salaries of the appointed department heads, the savings to the taxpayers could be tremendous," Portell predicted.

He said the change would end a

Utility tax for overpass enacted

By HARRY BARNES
of the Press-Record

Granite City's proposed utility tax of one-half of 1 percent on gas and electric bills over $100 became a law Tuesday night.

The City Council, with all 14 members present, voted 12 to 2 in favor of extending the tax over a 10-year period. The ordinance was placed on first reading two weeks ago.

The bill was offered on a motion for final passage by Alderman Paul Flisk, chairman of the ordinance committee, after first amending the original bill as to the distribution of the tax money by the utilities.

As originally proposed, tax monies collected by the utilities would have been distributed only once a year. The amendment offered Tuesday night and made a part of the ordinance now provides that tax collections be distributed to the city by the end of each month.

The vote on the motion to delete the previous section and insert the new payment requirement was unanimous.

After the motion to approve the ordinance on final passage carried, Mayor Paul Schuler told the aldermen: "By your action tonight, you have done more for your constituents than you will have a chance to do in a long time. This is something that will be remembered for a long time to come."

The one-half percent utility tax is expected to produce enough money to finance the balance of $1.3 million needed by the city to build the proposed overpass between West Granite City and the downtown area on 19th Street.

Verbal contract on sale of home

Charges that a Granite City residence was sold to two buyers at the same time for an owner who claimed he had made no arrangements for the property are untrue and have been explained to state agents of the Department of Registration and Education, Walter M. Rozycki of Granite City told the Press-Record Wednesday.

Rozycki said it is true that he had two prospective buyers for the property at the same time, but that one of them decided against buying the house because of some arrangements of the house, and that the second buyer began dealing personally with the homeowner.

College office is open here

An office in Washington School has been opened for the convenience of students who plan to enroll in Belleville Area College's Granite City daytime classes.

Alma Ramey has been employed as secretary for the extension center and the old Washington School telephone number has been retained.

The secretary will be on duty from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and calls may be made to 876-7848.

Parents of students who will be attending Belleville Area College classes at Washington School in the fall are being encouraged to write down the telephone number for easy reference.

Earned money which had been paid by both of the prospective buyers was returned to them, Rozycki said.

Rozycki also challenged assertions by the homeowner that Rozycki's agency did not have authority to offer the house for sale. He said he was called by the owner and asked to make an appraisal on the property. When he had done so, he called the owner to inform him that he had two prospective buyers and that the owner had told him to determine what they had to offer.

"I have since learned there has been

Reduce oil, gas needs

By PAT FOLEY
of the Press-Record

Granite City Steel, a division of National Steel Corporation, is constructing a massive steamline which will help reduce the consumption of natural gas and fuel oil used in the production of steel. Steam is utilized in several applications at the steel mill.

A 20-inch-diameter steel pipe is being installed between the company's blast furnace division on Edwardsville Road and the steel mill west of 20th Street at the Nash Street gate, a distance of 8,500 feet or one and two-thirds miles. The wall of pipe is more than a half-inch thick.

MASSIVE STEAMLINE is installed along Edwardsville Road across from Granite City Steel's blast furnace division. The 8,500 foot pipeline will be installed above ground held by the concrete and steel supports at right. Pipefitters work at the lower left on expansion loops which will be placed at intervals along the line to allow for expansion of the steam. The 20-inch steel pipe will run along Edwardsville Road to 21st Street then northwest along 21st Street to the company's North plant where it will diagonally cross parking lots and 20th Street near the Nash Street entrance to the steel mill. Use of the steam from the blast furnace area will reduce the consumption of natural gas and fuel oil now used in the steel mill to produce steam.

Motion to move SIUE Board trial

The trial of the Southern Illinois University Board of Trustees on alleged violations of the state's open meetings laws will be moved from Madison County to the Carbondale area, if a motion by the attorney for the board is granted.

Associate Judge Lola Maddox has set a hearing for this week on the motion by John Feirich of Carbondale, attorney for the board, to move the trial to Jackson County, where Carbondale is located.

According to Feirich, state law requires suits against any government organization to be heard "in the county in which its principal office is located."

The SIUE Board's office is in Carbondale.

A hearing scheduled for last Friday to determine if the Faculty Organization for Collective Bargaining (FOCB) should be allowed to intervene in the case, was postponed until the change of venue motion has been heard. The FOCB wants the court to invalidate decisions made by the trustees which were made in the allegedly illegal executive sessions.

Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron filed the charges against the SIUE Board after numerous allegations that the board was holding closed executive sessions to study topics which may be discussed by public officials only in open meetings.

Groups join to fight heart attacks, teach resuscitation

In a continuing effort to reduce the heart attack death toll, the Illinois Heart Association and the American Red Cross have strengthened their working relationship in teaching cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), also known as basic life support.

A statement of cooperation signed in Washington, D.C., July 11, between the American Heart Association, of which the Illinois Heart Association is an affiliate, and the American Red Cross, identifies methods by which they will coordinate educational activities at the national and community level.

The agreement was signed by John W. Eckstein, M.D., president of the American Heart Association, and George Elsey, president of the Red Cross.

David W. Morse, M.D., of Urbana, president of the Illinois Heart Association, said, "Heart attack is the most frequent form of medical emergency. The need for an adequate response to this problem is reinforced by the economic loss of heart attack deaths, estimated at more than $28 billion annually."

Morse said the Illinois Heart Association has trained more than 200,000 persons in basic CPR in the 99 downstate counties of Illinois since 1974 and said, "Life support units and emergency medical service systems report nationally 30 to 50 percent average out-of-hospital resuscitation rates. Based on the national figure of 350,000 out-of-hospital deaths per year, this could mean the saving of 105,000 to 175,000 lives per year."

He said, "We have instructors in all but one of the 99 counties and have trained almost a thousand people over the age of 70."

Included in the agreement are close relationships between staff and volunteers of both organizations; recognition by the Red Cross that the Heart Association has a major responsibility for establishing medical standards for the performance of emergency medical care; recognition by the Heart Association that ARC is the major teaching organization first-aid and must conform to certain procedures.

It was agreed that both organizations need to maintain separate identity. Both organizations will refine instructional materials based on medical standards. While differences in teaching methodologies exist, both agree that the information conveyed to the students and the performance skills developed are essentially the same.

"At the local level there should be joint planning for optimum use of CPR resources to meet community needs. Cooperative activities should include, but are not limited to: sharing manikins for instruction, planning for use of facilities, announcing courses to the public, and striving to avoid duplication of services or efforts," a spokesman said.

"Both the AHA and ARC have established and will maintain instructor preparation and certification procedures."

"Should instructors trained and authorized by one organization wish to work with the other preparation will be required to familiarize the instructor with the differences in administrative and instructional processes."

Kindergarten stress

Madison County Extension Adviser, Home Economics

Kindergarten may be a great adventure for some children, but others find it extremely traumatic.

Many youngsters experience stress when they first enter school. They feel uncertain about the new experience and their ability to deal with it.

Most of us associate stress with our jobs, finances, marital situations, health or other circumstances that are part of the adult world. From our grown-up perspective, we don't always appreciate the stresses that affect children.

Adults expect school to offer a child the promise of new friends, stimulating experiences, and a chance to learn. But this is an adult perception of the new school experience.

As a child views school entry, he may see only that he must:

- Conform to a tighter schedule than that at home.
- Lose some of the personal autonomy he enjoyed during pre-school years.
- Get used to a teacher who does not provide the individual attention that parents provide.

—Play with children who may be quite different from previous friends and acquaintances; and —Share playthings and relate to other children.

A few children find these steps toward socialization painfully difficult.

Most negotiate the change to school smoothly. But parents need to be aware of the stress that may accompany the start of school. If your child is entering school, be firm, patient and above all, understanding. If your child has a difficult time, discuss it with the teacher.

in favor of any fare increase unless the cab company "cleans up its place (office area). I have seen trash and debris around the place and oil spilled all over the ground. The police and the inspectors should go down there every day if they have to see the place is kept up."

Alderman Lloyd Bailey of the Fifth Ward complained, "I have seen bags of garbage sitting around." Other aldermen complained that the interior of cabs are not clean and that some of the cabs are in bad condition.

"I agree with these comments, Alderman Warren Decatur said, noting, "Their problem seems to be a financial one and I believe the raise in fares should be granted. This all comes back to a matter of inspection and enforcement can do a lot to clear up this problem."

Mayor Paul Schuler told the aldermen that if they intended to do something about it, "You have the tool you need right here."

Poulos, however, said, "I don't know what we should do. The people need this service. It's the only taxi service in the city."

At the same time, however, Poulos told the aldermen that he had heard reports that the fare increase already was being charged by taxi drivers. He told them they are not to do that until the ordinance is passed, he said.

The motion to suspend the rules to place the ordinance on final passage failed by a vote of 9 to 5. A minimum of 10 votes is needed to suspend the rules to permit final passage of an ordinance in the same meeting in which it is presented.

Fisk then moved that the ordinance be placed on first reading. That motion carried 9 to 5 since only eight votes were needed in that instance.

Alderman Paul Bowler of the Seventh Ward made a motion that the mayor be instructed to notify the taxi firm that unless it improves its cabs and office quarters, the ordinance will not be passed.

A vote, on that motion resulted in differences between Mayor Schuler and Alderman Charles Douglas over procedure in recording the vote.

Mayor Schuler called for a voice vote on Bowler's motion, resulting in a chorus of "ayes," and one "no" by Douglas.

Mayor Schuler turned to the city clerk and remarked, "Let the record show Charles Douglas voted no."

Douglas protested strongly, noting that procedure in taking a voice vote does not permit a record as to how any individual voted.

"I don't want to be recorded as voting no," Douglas said.

"You did vote, didn't you?" the mayor asked.

"Yes," Douglas said.

"You did vote no, didn't you?" Mayor Schuler asked again.

"Yes," Douglas said, "but the procedure does not permit a record of a vote in that case."

Mayor Schuler then turned to City Attorney Lance Callis who told the council that if the chairman of a voting body so orders, the votes by individuals may be recorded.

Callis explained that the party involved had the right to make a motion to expunge his name from the record.

"I so move," Douglas replied.

The mayor called a voice vote on that motion and in response to a chorus of negative votes ruled that Douglas' motion had lost.

obligation bonds and use proceeds of the utility tax to retire the bond principal and interest. The ordinance provides for automatic expiration of the tax after 10 years, the amortization date for the bond issue.

Before the vote was taken on Fisk's motion to enact the tax ordinance, Alderman Michael Modrusick of the Seventh Ward told the council that he had received a number of complaints from residents who feared the tax may be used for other projects in the future.

Alderman Sam Whitmer said that he believed just the opposite.

"I have heard no complaints from the people generally. With the $100 deductible billing a resident will pay only a few cents tax even if his utility bill is over $100," Whitmer said.

Paul Ray Bowler, alderman of the Seventh Ward who opposed the utility tax plan, suggested the city set up a system of investing the money as it is received to draw interest and supplement the tax income for retirement of bonds and interest.

Alderman Warren Decatur of Ward Four asked the mayor if industrial leaders who opposed the tax proposal have said whether or not they intend to file suit in an effort to block the tax extension.

Schuler said they had not.

Referring to a meeting with industrial leaders held shortly after the tax proposal was made, the mayor said:

"No one has given any indication that any legal action is intended. Nothing was said about it. Of course, they didn't say they would not."

In response to a roll call vote, those voting in favor were Alderman Sam Whitmer, Roy Poulos, Charles Douglas, Everett Morlen, Glen Sprinkle, Warren Decatur, Fred Schuman Jr., Paul Fisk, Lloyd Bailey, Margaret Nunn, Ed Baker and Mac Warfield.

Voting against the bill were Paul Bowler and Michael Modrusick.

appointed department heads, the latter departments being operated according to board committees' wishes.

"Obviously, when a department run by a committee needs anything, like a typewriter, the committee studies it and then presents the request to the board. The committees are made up of board members."

"However, when my department or any department with an elected head needs something, we have no representation on the board. We have no committee to study our needs. They just look at our budgets and say, 'You don't have the money in your budget.'"

"We need seven or more typewriters in my department alone, but they keep telling me to cut expenditures and not spend more, even if we do need these items," Portell asserted.

"It does not mean to imply that all the County Board members are doing a bad job or don't know what they are doing. A few had one make all the others look bad. However, it only makes sense that three or five full-time commissioners here day after day would have a better understanding of the needs of the county than board members who spend only a few hours a week in the courthouse."

"An example is that Lester Pirtos (controller for the circuit clerk's office) spent several months preparing our budget. Board members come in here and spend a half hour and think they know all about it."

"My office has tremendous needs, but we are being treated by the board strictly as a fund-raising arm of the government. We need space, for one thing."

"Our offices are scattered throughout the county. If you want to see the files on lawsuits seeking less than $15,000 (cases titled L.M.), you have to go to East Alton to see them. That is the only place we have room to keep the files."

"The family division, second largest of the clerk's office, keeps being shifted around from building to building and now is on the fifth floor of the old bank building across the street from the courthouse. And there is talk about shifting some of their files elsewhere."

"Records and evidence are stored in various places throughout the courthouse and the county. It is very difficult to maintain order and proper security for the records like this," the veteran circuit clerk added.

"Our county leaders need to wake up and realize that we are increasing our income drastically in the circuit clerk's office and we need to be able to keep some of that money for additional people and equipment. In DuPage County, which has fewer cases to process than Madison County, the clerk's office has about 150 persons. We have 44. That should tell you something," Portell concluded.

A check by the Press-Record indicates that 18 counties in Illinois are run by county commissioners, including the largest, Cook County. All these, except Cook County, use a three-commissioner system. Cook County has 15 commissioners.

Portell feels it is unlikely the county board will allow a public referendum to be held to change the form of county government. "I and County Auditor John Kravack and County Recorder of Deeds Ronald Lucas have advocated this for a long time, but nothing has happened. I have spoken on this issue for 10 years, but the need for a change has never been as clear as it is now," Portell stated.

County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City told the Press-Record he does not wish to comment at this time on Portell's proposal, but may wish to make a public comment in the future.

New regulations for Pontoon massage parlor

The Pontoon Beach Village Board gave final approval Tuesday night to an ordinance regulating massage parlors in the village.

The amended ordinance is the result of a court order by Associate Judge P.J. O'Neill which held portions of the village ordinance controlling the Green Dragon Health Spa on Lake Drive illegal.

The health spa went to the courts after the village refused to renew its business license after Sgt. Harold Denham, representing the village health inspector, inspected the facility and found numerous violations of the village's existing massage parlor ordinance. On June 13, O'Neill issued an order finding that regulations on the hours, demand for physical examinations by a Madison County physician, a $5,000 bond for the business, and inspection requirements were illegal.

A July 16 order modified the June order and clarified what the village could do to regulate the business.

The new ordinance, given final approval Tuesday night, requires the operator of the spa to have proof of

TRAILER LOCK CUT

Roger Lee, dock supervisor at Central Hardware, 1 Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center, reported a trailer burglary Monday, with the intruder cutting through a lock on a trailer parked near the loading dock. He was unable to determine if anything was missing at the time the report was made.

Seek property for sewer billing office

The Madison County Special Sewer Committee is searching for a parcel of ground on which it can erect one building for sewer billing work and another for a storage building, it was announced at last night's sewer committee meeting.

Louis Whitsell, committee chairman, announced that a private meeting of the committee was held Thursday night, July 19, in the office of Attorney Harry Hartman to discuss possible land acquisition. Another closed meeting was held with representatives of the Pontoon Beach

Village Board following last night's sewer committee meeting to discuss use of a portion of property owned by the village. Hartman is having another parcel of property appraised, Whitsell said. Engineer Ed Juneau reported he will bring in a change order at the next meeting for expenses incurred in draining the Trailriders Saddle Club Arena near the Chain of Rocks Canal Levee and Rock Road.

"We built a levee to cover the main sewer and in the process blocked some water on them. We are digging a ditch and putting in a culvert to remove the water and that will cost more," Juneau explained.

A minor disagreement developed as Whitsell said he felt the planners had made "a mistake" including several homes on Old Alton Road in the sewer taxing district and then not planning sewers for that area. Juneau said it was not a mistake and he contended the value of the properties will increase because they are in a sewer district and can link into the main sewers when money becomes available.

He also said that if sufficient funds are available when the main sewer project is completed, the committee will consider using the funds to put in a sewer line to the homes on Old Alton Road.

Committee Member Morris Miles commented, "That's not going to pacify them."

Whitsell said Hartman has forms available at his office for persons who wish to pay their sewer taxes under protest because they will not receive sewer service.

CUTS TO FACE

Passbook savings rate goes up to 5½%!

The interest we pay on passbook savings is now 5½% annually — compared to the previous 5¼%. This new rate is the highest interest government regulations have ever allowed for this type account.

Savings certificate minimums go down to $1,000!

The minimum deposit required to earn the higher interest offered through savings certificates is now just $1,000. This new reduced minimum, making higher interest available to more savers, applies to all certificates except 6-month money market certificates — for which government regulations still require a $10,000 minimum.

New high-yielding 4-year money market certificate plan!

New regulations allow us to offer a 4-year money market certificate paying interest tied to the average yield on 4-year U.S. Treasury securities. The interest rate for establishment of new certificates will change monthly — but will remain in effect for the full term of the certificate. Minimum deposit requirement is just $1,000.

Stop by today for details on how you can take advantage of these new plans.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early certificate withdrawal.

Love, compassion guide counselor in campus ministry

The Rev. Joseph Langford may be marching down a different street these days, but the drummer he hears and the stride he attempts to match never change.

Newly assigned to the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus to serve the Catholic constituency of the university family, he largely bases his ministry on love of God and compassion for his fellow man. It's an unbeatable combination, as he sees it.

"Father Joe," as he sometimes refers to himself, is no stranger to counseling college students. His latest assignment before coming here was at a Boston seminary where he counseled young people. Before that, he spent almost seven years in Rome, involved in a variety of religious experiences.

A native of San Diego, the young priest spent his first two college years on the west coast, and then traveled to Rome, where he spent the next few years studying for the priesthood at the Angeli, a university run by the Dominican Fathers, and working closely with Mother Teresa of Calcutta's Missionaries of Charity.

Within a seven-mile radius in Rome, close to a quarter-million students are engaged in the pursuit of higher education. Rev. Langford provided counseling for a number of these students, and enjoyed the experience. He hopes to provide the same type of counseling for SIUE students.

He found Rome to be a crossroads for people emigrating from the Third World countries — mainly, the developing countries of Asia and Africa. He estimated the displaced, transient population within the "Eternal City" at roughly 300,000 persons.

"All roads lead to Rome," he said. "The planes and boats drop them in Italy and they end up wandering the streets of Rome, often penniless and without roots, seeking employment and hoping to obtain visas to Sweden, Switzerland or the United States."

The Missionaries of Charity sisters, whose mission is to administer to the poorest of the poor, have established shelters among the more wretched habitats of the world, including the inner city of Rome and reaching to the outskirts of civilization on the sands of the Yemen desert. In the United States, shelters have been established in the inner cities of Boston and St. Louis.

In Rome, the sisters have established a shelter near the railway station to care for the arriving homeless who, in trying to escape an intolerable lifestyle, have become trapped in an equally depressing situation.

There is a strong sense of comradeship among people of the differing cultures. "While they don't speak each other's language and don't understand each other's culture, there is a tremendous bond between them," Rev. Langford said.

They have the potential of being rich, indeed, because their hearts are not cluttered with a lot of material things, he said. "These people not only receive love readily, they are able to give it just as easily."

The young priest went on to say that, "While they are unable to verbally communicate their despair, the presence of another who cares — and who looks upon them as brothers and sisters of the same God — seems to have a tremendous impact upon them." As an afterthought, he added, "and upon me as well."

Rev. Langford said their ability to communicate and demonstrate compassion toward one another without knowledge of the language was unusual. "I can certainly say it is. The deepest communication I experienced with these people went far beyond the verbal," he said.

But then, language has never created an insurmountable barrier for the former Californian. Enjoying a working knowledge of better than five languages, including Spanish, Portuguese, French, Italian and English, Langford is currently studying Bengali, one of the major languages of India.

A student of Oriental philosophy and religion and having an interest in Eastern and Western mysticism, the priest dreams of one day going to that country as a missionary.

However, don't think that Rev. Langford looks at his assignment at SIUE merely as a stopgap-of-place. "I do what I do with a lot of enthusiasm," he said, hastily amending his comment to include "compassion and enthusiasm."

"If I have any goals while I am here, they are to build up a sense of community and family among the students and, through that family, bring them to an experience of God in their lives."

He plans to be available "24 hours a day" for any and everyone. "Not just members of the Catholic community, but for everyone, anytime, and for any type of need," he stressed.

He considers himself a writer of sorts, enjoying writing poetry whenever he finds the time. "If there is an underlying theme to my work, it would be man's search for beauty, truth and meaning," he said.

While he was growing up, he performed with a folk rock band in California. However, there has been little chance to pursue that talent lately.

He enjoys sports, all of them. "You might call me an avid sports fan," he said. "Having been in Europe for years where there is a constant staple of soccer on an international basis, I will enjoy following the SIUE soccer season," Rev. Langford said.

He is looking forward to his assignment at SIUE, planning to put a lot of "love and energy" into his work. "Rather than going out and building a whole tree, I plan to be content with planting the seed for now, and watching it grow."

"College students have a lot in common with the displaced people in Rome. Uprooted from all that is familiar to them, students face a lot of pressures and temptations."

"There are differing manifestations of poverty (or needs) — where people are lacking what they are lacking, and why they are lacking. But beyond that, at a deeper level, there is a spiritual hunger for meeting a God that loves them," he said.

He hopes he can provide the necessary spiritual guidance they are seeking. He concludes, "In order to believe in the God of love, they have to see the love of God in those who represent Him."

REV. JOSEPH LANGFORD

Garden clubs commended

Park Superintendent Harold Brown announced at Wednesday night's meeting of the Granite City Park Board that the sliding board to be used at the swimming pool was delivered earlier than that and should be ready for patrons' use during the regular swimming session Sunday, July 29.

The slide will be installed at the deep end of the pool as deep water is required for safety reasons.

It was noted by the board of park commissioners that receipts to date at both the swimming pool and at the six concession stands have already exceeded receipts for the entire season last year.

Three copies of a resolution commending several garden clubs for their work in the park which included planting of flowers, design of flower beds and other activities were presented to representatives of the clubs.

The Garden Study Club, Gardenaires Garden Club and the Fair Oaks Junior Garden Club were each recognized for their work and a framed copy of the resolution was given to each by park board President George Sykes.

It was noted that 63 senior citizens will be attending the Cardinals baseball game this evening. The trip to the game and specially priced seats were coordinated by the park district.

Also this evening will be the Recreation Program Fantomine Follies at 7:30 at the ice rink. In addition to skits by each playground in pantomime, various awards will be presented.

Plans for a co-ed 16-inch slow pitch softball tournament for park district residents scheduled for September were discussed. Details of rules and eligibility will be announced later.

Revision of the present work application for part-time summer help was discussed with specific changes to be determined at a later meeting.

Two members of the five-man board were absent making a unanimous vote necessary by the three remaining members to carry any motion.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT
James Finch, 19, of 3917 Village Lane, suffered a fracture of the right ankle and abrasions to the right elbow and knee in a motorcycle accident about 6 p.m. Monday. He was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and released.

Route 203 crash hurts 3

Three persons were injured when the cars of Shirley L. Barnett, 15, of 2014 Alton Ave., Cloverleaf Addition, and of Jean D. Watson, 29, DeSoto, Mo., collided on Route 203 at the Cloverleaf frontage road entrance at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Watson was issued a ticket alleging failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident after her southbound auto came from the McCambridge Avenue viaduct and struck the rear of Miss Barnett's auto, which was stopped with its turn signal on to make a left turn onto the Cloverleaf frontage road, according to state troopers.

The injured were taken by a Granite City ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Miss Barnett suffered pain to her left wrist and was released after X-rays were taken.

James Butts, 8, of 1419 Fifth St., a passenger in Miss Barnett's auto, suffered a bruise to his right elbow and was released after emergency room treatment.

Paul Barnett, 14, another passenger in the car, escaped serious injury and did not require hospital treatment.

Mrs. Watson suffered a cut to her forehead and pain to both arms and was released after treatment.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

But it was omitted in 1967, whether purposeful or by mistake, when the law was amended to allow private discussion of negotiations.

Conduct on buses better

The Bi-State Development Agency undercover security program has made significant progress in improving passenger safety and comfort aboard Bi-State buses, according to Thomas P. O'Driscoll, security coordinator for Bi-State.

In the six months since the security program began, 337 arrests were made, compared with a total of 40 for the entire previous year. The program, which began in January, utilizes undercover police officers on-board buses. The officers are assigned at random times and locations, but all serve within their jurisdictions and have the authority to make arrests and issue summonses.

Most of the arrests to date have been for alcohol consumption (135) and possession of marijuana (134). Next were smoking (24) and disturbing the peace (24). The remaining 47 arrests were for varied offenses.

After a peak number of arrests in January (108), the incidence has gradually tapered off.

O'Driscoll believes, "The results of the program are positive and it seems to be having the desired deterrent effect."

Nameoki Township Supervisor Harold Davis has written a letter to the Granite City Board of Education indicating that the township would like to purchase the abandoned Stallings School for a senior citizens' center.

The Illinois State Democratic Central Committee is to meet in Chicago Tuesday to vote on the appointment of a member of the Illinois delegation on the Democratic National Convention—this, only candidate for which is Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City.

Mayor Schuler filed as a candidate to fill the vacancy last week following the resignation of State Rep. Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) who was elected to the four-year term.

One year of the term remains. If appointed, Mayor Schuler would fill the vacancy on the 11-member Illinois panel until all members of the National Democratic Committee are subject to election following the 1980 national convention.

Firemen called second time

Firemen were forced to return to 2224 E. 23rd St. Tuesday to put out the second of two fires in the same day in the house belonging to Mary Lou Carroll, 2732 National Ave. The fire started when a silvering divan in the living room, which caught fire earlier in the day, fell through the floor into the basement, setting a mattress on fire.

The first call came at 6:35 a.m., when firemen fought the fire in the living room of the four-room frame house. They were on the scene one hour and 10 minutes.

At 2 p.m. they were called to the house again and fought the fire in the basement. Firemen were on the scene the second time for 30 minutes.

The cause of the original fire is unknown. Damage to the house was estimated at $4200, with $3000 to the contents. The house was unoccupied at the time of the fires.

Instead of using the costly commercial natural gas and fuel oil to produce the needed steam in the mill, the steam will be produced at the blast furnaces using a gas-by-product of the iron producing process.

The company has asked the city to block several streets beginning Aug. 12 for safety purposes while a helicopter is used to lift sections of the pipeline into place across 20th and 21st Streets and the roof of the plant.

The proposed streets to be blocked off will be 21st Street from Monroe Street to Park Avenue and 20th Street from Lee to Park Avenue.

The blockages are scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. on Aug. 12, as the first of 19 lifts necessary in that area for the installation of the steamline.

The steel canopy on the mill was offered personnel from its security force to give police during the blockage, if necessary. Plans for the blockage are being coordinated through the office of Police Chief Ronald Veizer.

MR. AND MRS. GARY FISCHER.

'Tap U.S. energy sources and community groups like the UW'

Governor James R. Thompson told the National Urban League's annual conference Tuesday in Chicago that the president and Congress must "stop beating around the bush" and assemble a new policy to permit the nation to tap its own energy sources instead of continued dependence on imports.

Stressing that the nation must make its environmental laws more equitable and realistic, the governor said:

"We don't want to go back to the days when smog blocked our view across the street. But we do want to make our environmental laws more rational. We can no longer afford the luxury of ignoring coal."

"We have more unused energy under our soil than many times the energy under OPEC nation sands. Congress must respond, with new dollars to help get it out of the ground and into our economy, with new realism in the framing and enforcement of environmental policy."

Thompson warned the League members that the energy crisis, a downturn in the economy, and cuts in federal programs — including cutbacks in funding for the nation's cities — "will be facts of life" in the years ahead.

"It's a time for plain talking, not a time for promises of bold new programs that can't be converted from rhetoric into reality."

"It's obvious that Congress isn't about to go against the temper of the times when it comes to big spending, even if the economy springs back, inflation disappears and OPEC declares a truce."

"People and their elected representatives are fed up with grandiose programs at grandiose prices that don't seem to work."

Thompson said expected cutbacks in federal aid and interest in revenue sharing, housing, job training and other programs could be "an opportunity to move more of the public policy decisions that affect people's lives out of Washington and into state capitols and city halls and community based groups, closer to the people, where they belong."

"If it is indeed the mood of the nation to do less by remote control from Washington, if it is the will of the people to see more done at the local level that they can control themselves, then let's change federal policy to make that happen," the governor urged.

He outlined a three-point strategy that states, cities, the Urban League and other private sector service groups might follow:

1. An agreement with Washington to "accept our fair share of cuts in federal aid if we get a major cut in the red tape that tie our hands to the strong right arm of the federal bureaucracy."
2. "Washington's job should be to set national goals and policies," he said, "not to get into the nuts and bolts of how states and cities and Urban Leagues and other groups organize and direct their troop to carry out those policies."

"All of us could do a lot more with a lot less if we could devote every penny available to meeting the needs of people rather than serving the needs of a bureaucracy."

2. States and cities should be doing all they can, "within the limits of federal red tape, to get their own houses in better order."

Thompson cited two major reorganization efforts under way in Illinois: the merger of the state's economic development, community assistance and jobs programs into a new Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, and legislation now pending before the General Assembly to merge all of the state's civil rights programs into a single Department of Human Rights.

"We think it makes good sense to set up a one-stop shopping center for communities in need of help, for companies in need of finding a plant site, and for workers in need of job training," Thompson said.

"We further think it makes sense to consolidate all of our civil rights program now scattered among three separate agencies into a new department, with cabinet status."

"People facing discrimination in employment, housing, public accommodation, credit or any other area of their daily lives shouldn't be forced to go from agency to agency looking for help."

3. States and cities "should take on the Urban Leagues, United Way agencies, neighborhood groups and other private organizations as active, day-to-day partners in the creation and delivery of human services."

"There are needs and priorities that community-based groups can see far more clearly" than government, Thompson said.

"There is expertise you can draw on that we could never buy. There are programs you can put together and manage far better than any government."

"There is good will among your staff and supporters that big bureaucracy would stifle."

"State and local governments need to capitalize on all of those qualities," he said. "And in Illinois we're doing as much as we can to do just that. At least as much as we can do without tripping over federal red tape."

Thompson noted the state's move to pass $20 million in federal social services funding directly to local governments and private agencies for them to use on programs "organized and run in ways they know best, to meet local needs they know best, to serve people they know best."

"If it's true that we're going to see less and less help from Washington, we've got to see more and more leeway for states and cities to take up the slack by getting more and more services out of what dollars we have, and doing more and more arm in arm with the private sector," Thompson said.

"If we don't get that leeway, if we must carry on into the 1980s with business as usual but with less help, then much of what you are talking about at this conference, what you are hoping to make happen in our cities, simply won't come to pass."

EUGENE ARNOLD

Engineering career for Eugene Arnold

Eugene M. Arnold Jr., 119 Booker St., Madison, has received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from Northwestern University.

Commencement exercises were held in June at the Northwestern campus in Evanston, Ill.

Arnold, a 1974 Venice High School graduate, was among 3,500 receiving degrees, diplomas and certificates from Robert H. Stroger University president, at the 121st annual commencement held in McGraw Memorial Hall.

Northwestern University, one of the nation's leading private universities, has an undergraduate enrollment of 6,500 and a total enrollment of about 15,000.

Among NU's 12 undergraduate and professional schools are the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Education, the Medill School of Journalism, the School of Music, the School of Speech, the Technological Institute (engineering), the Graduate School and the Graduate School of Management.

A member of the Big 10 Conference, Northwestern's main campus is in Evanston, but its professional school of medicine, law and dentistry and the university's Division of Continuing Education are located in Chicago.

Arnold, 23, started his public school education at Harris School in Madison, but completed the first through twelfth grades in the Venice School District.

While studying at Northwestern's Technological Institute, the local graduate also was employed by McDonnell Aircraft in St. Louis under the co-op student program.

He achieved his B.Sc. degree with a Co-Op Certificate.

Arnold has now accepted a full-time position with McDonnell Corp.

"Gene," as he is known to family and friends, was feted recently at a gathering of former schoolmates, family members and friends from Evanston, Brooklyn, East St. Louis, Madison and St. Louis.

The evening started at the home of his mother, Mrs. Verla Arnold, 119 Booker St.

It's a long climb from the open hearth furnaces of the steel mills in Granite City which dot the Mississippi River near St. Louis to the top floor of the Marina City office building complex in Chicago. But it has been an interesting and enjoyable journey for Robert G. Gibson, the new President of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO.

Tabbed as an heir apparent to the presidency ever since he became, at age 35, one of the youngest secretary-treasurers of a state federation in the entire nation, Gibson stepped into the top spot when then-President Stanley Johnson decided to retire in May. Now 51, Gibson will fill out the balance of Johnson's unexpired term and will seek a full four-year term at elections this fall.

Gibson's career in organized labor began in 1947. After service with the U.S. Coast Guard in the South Pacific during World War II, he joined Local #116 of the United Steelworkers in Granite City and worked as an open hearth furnace operator in a local steel mill. His interest in union politics emerged and for ten years Gibson served as secretary of his local.

"In 1956," Gibson recalls, "the old state industrial union elects delegates to an annual convention where they can adopt and enact policy which our direction at the state level. I was looking for a staff man to serve on the state level and head up its community services program. When the State AFL and State CIO merged in 1958, I was named Director of Community Services of the new Illinois State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO." Gibson moved to Chicago in 1963, when the incumbent Secretary-Treasurer died suddenly and he was asked to fill the position.

A newly-appointed member of the recently-expanded Illinois Employment and Training Council, Gibson explained the structure and function of his organization and its relationship to employment and training programs in Illinois.

Describing the Illinois State Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO as a "union of unions," Gibson says its primary purpose is to ensure representation at the state level of Illinois' more than 2,700 local unions and 1.1 million union members. "Each local elects delegates to our annual convention where they can adopt and enact policy which our direction at the state level," he says. "It's also a constitutional convention, where the 2,000 delegates can vote for changes in the constitution or organizational structure."

We also develop our legislative program at these conventions," Gibson said. "And that's our number one priority when the Illinois General Assembly is in session. "It cites collective bargaining agreements as the top priority of this session. "Illinois is still one of the few major industrial states without any kind of law that gives recognition to a public employee's right to join a union," he says "and although we're working diligently for such a law, unfortunately, we haven't yet been able to achieve this goal."

Another top issue, Gibson says, focused on minimum wage laws which would put the wage of Illinois workers not covered by the National Labor Relations Board's jurisdiction on par with workers covered by federal law in the public sector. "We've always felt that the minimum wage is exactly what it is," he says. "You've got to have some sort of government-guaranteed wage for the worker who starts at the very bottom of the ladder with very few skills. We work hard to achieve this parity, even though virtually everyone in a union makes more than the minimum wage, and our members aren't generally affected when we lobby for an increase or extension of coverage," Gibson said.

Other legislative action, he says, included working to defeat seven right to work laws introduced during the current legislative session. "We're opposed to laws that would extend the benefits of union membership to those who do not support it through dues. In order to sustain a union organization and maintain adequate representation, you have to have some form of financial support."

Because of his community services background in organized labor, Gibson has long recognized that labor and government-funded employment and training programs must work together to achieve common goals and to minimize friction. Two years ago, Gibson sought and received a CETA grant to establish a Manpower Assistance Program to inform local unions about CETA and to expand labor's representation on CETA planning and advisory councils.

"One of the things I kept running into as an officer of the state federation was the lack of understanding of our own members and even officers of local unions about the role of government in employment and training programs," he says. "I usually heard about these complaints only after the situation had deteriorated to where union officials and prime sponsors or program operators were literally antagonizing one another. I felt we could take a more active role in establishing a program to gain a better understanding and acceptance of CETA-type programs by our membership. That's why I went to the Illinois Employment and Training Council and asked for a grant to set up an informational program. We are one of the few states — perhaps half a dozen or so — in the country to have such a program. I know it's working well because I don't get the complaints or phone calls any longer. Problems still crop up, of course, but these situations can be resolved at the local level if the right people sit down to resolve the issues."

Two areas which continue to pose problems for organized labor, according to Gibson, are the mismatching of labor supply with available jobs and what he believes is a lack of adequate labor representation on the new, private industry councils established by the CETA Amendments of 1978.

"A major problem and challenge to labor is how to work with operators of federal job training programs so that the jobs for which people are trained are there when they complete the program," he says. "If there aren't job openings for these people, they become frustrated and the programs get asked. This is particularly detrimental to the union apprenticeship programs when program operators or prime sponsors haven't contacted union officials to work out details of job placement before training takes place."

Gibson says he has "always felt that government is the employer of last resort. If we're training these people and the private industry doesn't pick them up, they'll all wind up working in government-funded projects. And while that's not all bad, we can't continue to train them to work permanently in government jobs. Sooner or later, they need to take their skills and training into the private sector."

Although supporting the role of private industry councils in developing job opportunities in the private sector, Gibson voiced some misgivings about the "lack of labor representation on many of the councils. I'd like to see organized labor with a stronger voice on these councils so that we can work with job training agencies and private business to resolve the relationship between training activities and job placement in terms of the unions' structure."

Gibson says trade unions themselves need to be more flexible in certain areas, and cited the effect of age restrictions on apprenticeship programs for females. "We've found, for example, that women in their late twenties make excellent construction workers. Many of them have been through a marriage, need and appreciate the rate of pay, and have a pretty clear idea of what they want to do in life. However, unless the maximum age — usually 25 but as low as 22 for some trades — is waived for entrance into an apprenticeship program, the potential of female workers in this age bracket will never be tapped. I think the age limit could be waived."

According to Gibson, unions in Illinois have made steady strides in boosting the percentage of females, minorities and the Spanish-speaking in their membership. "Of course, unions themselves don't hire anybody," he says. "We're not the employer. Someone has to hire people in these categories first before they can join the union. But when they do, and when the various government equal employment opportunity and affirmative action agencies do their jobs, we'll organize them."

Looking to the future, Gibson maintains that one of the keys to the success of employment and training programs is to have management in private industry "an incentive to take unskilled people and help train them. The best way to train anyone to work is to put them to work. Quite frankly, I don't know whether this can be accomplished best by tax credits, outright grants or what. But I think there has to be greater emphasis placed on making sure that once an individual is trained — and the best place is in the work place — he or she knows a job is available."

Gibson says he is pleased with his appointment to the Illinois Employment Training Council as a labor representative and hopes that labor officials will be more widely represented on other advisory and policy-making councils and committees. "I'm really impressed by the quality and ability of the people represented on the Council and want to make my contribution there as an individual labor official."

As the new hand at the helm of the state federation, Gibson does not foresee any "dramatic shifts in program emphasis or direction. We're going to continue the steady progress we've made on the legislative and political fronts. We'll continue to work cooperatively with employment and training programs and I hope to expand our staff so we achieve greater success in all three areas. I think Illinois' state federation is one of the best in the nation and I hope to carry on the fine record established by Stanley Johnson."

Girl, 16, raped

A 16-year-old Granite City area girl told authorities she was raped during the Chain of Rocks Canal levee.

The victim said she was walking home from a friend's home in Madison when a young man on a motorcycle offered her a ride home. Since she recognized the young man from a party she once attended, she accepted the ride, she told police.

Charles Mason, 35, of 2208 Lee Ave., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with injuries sustained in a motorcycle accident, occurring early this week.

Treated for abrasions and released from the hospital following the mishap was Tracy Mason, 7, of the same address.

Mason, whose motorcycle reportedly struck a vehicle that he said turned in front of him, suffered abrasions and bruises to the forehead, elbow and legs. He underwent surgery.

MITCHELL BURLGARY Items valued at about $4,000 were stolen during a burglary at the home of Laura Whitcamp, 805 East Chain of Rocks Road, which was discovered during the weekend. Entry was gained by opening the rear garage door while the occupant was asleep in the home. An interior door to the house then was opened. Taken were a stereo, a television and some antique silverware.

Grants by state aiding handicapped

Governor James R. Thompson has approved legislation to provide $2.7 million to the Department of Mental Health for grants to community mental health organizations in the state to continue providing long-term, rather than institutionalized, care for the mentally ill and mentally handicapped.

The funds are part of $471 million approved by Thompson in the 1979-80 fiscal year budget for the Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities.

Generally, the grant funds, which were not included in the governor's budget in March, will be used for workshops, treatment, rehabilitation, transportation, family support and other assistance for the mentally ill, mentally retarded, cerebral palsied, epileptic and autistic.

In addition, the added funds were possible, Thompson said, through reductions in appropriations for operations of state-run facilities.

Other actions announced by the governor included: Approval of an appropriation bill, SB-484, for the Department of Agriculture, totaling $28,353,000, which includes the first appropriation of $1 million in history to assist in the operation of the state's county fairs, the first increase in four years, during which the appropriation has been $67,200 a year.

—Signing of House Bill 1642, providing $5.97 million for operation of the state fair in FY 1980, including a $500,000 grant for the Chicago Fest. The grant was reduced by veto of the governor by $450,000 from the level approved by the General Assembly.

Approval of House Bill 2618, which permits the political state central committees to decide whether delegates to national nominating conventions will be identified with specific presidential candidates.

Charges mount in incident at GC police building

Two brothers arrested early this week on disorderly conduct charges were named in additional complaints filed by Granite City police officers as the result of an incident in the police building on Sunday.

Authorities said that Robert Theis, 19, and his brother Joseph Theis, 20, were booked early Sunday morning on disorderly conduct charges after they were brought in by officers from Jacobmeyers tavern.

After the men posted bond and were preparing to leave the booking area, Joseph Theis allegedly threatened the officers. Officers said Theis told one officer that when he got a gun he was going to "blow your head off."

Officers said they rearrested Joseph Theis, but not until a scuffle ensued in which Robert Theis was alleged to have tried to keep the officers from taking his brother.

As a result of the incident, police filed an additional charge of obstructing justice against Robert Theis and an additional charge of assault against Joseph Theis.

Later, officers said, Robert Theis was charged with criminal damage to property after he allegedly scratched a jail cell wall and poured water on the floor of the cell. His bond was increased from $100 to $135 and he was released. Joseph Theis was released on $100 bond.

Police listed addresses in the 2100 block of Lee Avenue for the two men, but later listed an address for Robert Theis on Lake Drive.

HOSES, HOOKUP STOLEN
Rudolph Besta, 2444 Waterman Ave., reported Monday that two 50-foot sections of water hose, water sprinklers and a light hookup to a trailer were stolen from his home. The hookup was cut from the trailer, he said.

Luke 5:4 "Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets."

Although the disciples had fished all night and taken nothing, Jesus instructed them to launch out into the deep. The disciples obeyed the Lord, let down their nets, and caught so many fish they could hardly bring them in.

Jesus said to His followers, "Come, follow me, and I will make you fishers of men." He said, in essence, "I will teach you to win souls. You may have tried in vain to win someone for the Lord. Failure is not easy to accept, yet we must accept it sometimes. Christ knows where the fish are (in the deep). He calls of you to only obey Him (launch out). It is guaranteed that if you take His instruction, you will be successful (their nets were full)."

How about you? Will you launch out into the deep?

Seek tax cut on savings interest

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has introduced a bill that would eliminate the federal income tax on $500 of interest earned from a savings account if the income is reinvested during the tax year.

Under Percy's proposal—the Small Savers Incentive Act—the tax cut would apply to the first $100 of savings account interest regardless of reinvestment.

The proposal would boost the federal tax exclusion on dividend income from $100 to $500 if the income is reinvested during the tax year.

"In times of rising inflation, most people are better off buying a new television set before the price goes up than in buying a savings certificate whose value will go down," Percy added.

Under his proposal, it would be more profitable for people to save.

"We need to encourage Americans to save to increase the amount of money available to expanded capital investment," Percy said.

"Presently, United States citizens save only 6.5 percent of their personal income annually, while the Japanese save 25 percent, the West Germans save 15 percent and citizens of the United Kingdom save 13 percent."

"The average person doesn't have enough money to make the large deposits that earn top interest rates or to buy into profitable big-time investment deals. This bill will give a tax break to the smallest investor."

"During this period of spiraling inflation, it's the small investor who, many times, is hit the hardest. Higher levels of investment are the key to fighting inflation and to actively competing with foreign competitors."

"During the period of 1966-26, the U.S. invested only 13.5 percent of its gross national product in new plants and equipment. Our nation's primary competitor, Japan, invested 26.4 percent, West Germany 17.4 percent and the United Kingdom 14.9 percent."

BAC schedule mailed; ways to reduce costs of commuting

Belleville Area College's complete schedule of fall classes went into the mail this week and should be delivered to all 125,000 homes in the 2,000-plus square mile district no later than Aug. 1.

The arrival of the schedule in district homes is planned to coincide with the beginning of the college's telephone registration period.

Students throughout the district may register by telephone for all credit courses except mathematics or English (diagnostic placement tests must be taken prior to registering for math or English classes).

Telephone registration may not be used to register for general studies courses. Registration for general studies classes offered in the college's 22 extension centers must be completed at those centers.

General studies courses taught on the main campus may be registered for in 1980 during the daytime and in the registrar's office at night.

Several of the college's extension centers have scheduled an increased number of college credit courses to enable students to take necessary basic courses in their own communities.

Additionally, new daytime classes have been scheduled in Granite City to enable students to get most of their freshman requirements there without driving to the main BAC campus.

"We in the state's community colleges are particularly concerned about the rising cost of driving for our students," Dr. William R. Keel, president of BAC, said.

"We have explored, and are continuing to explore, ways that we as a college can help our students conserve fuel—and money."

"We encourage students to register by telephone to save that trip to the campus. However, students who have not worked out their degree plan with a college counselor should come to the campus before they enroll for courses."

Dr. Keel pointed out that some grants available to a majority of students take into consideration transportation costs. "We are trying to saturate the district with information concerning the availability of financial aid," he said.

"There has always been more money available than students realize. And with new federal legislation for middle income assistance, more than three-fourths of our students, enrolled half-time or more, should qualify for some financial aid."

Dr. Keel suggested that if enough people are made aware of the availability of financial assistance programs, the community colleges of the state may not experience the decrease in enrollment that many of them expect due to rising commuting costs.

Channel 14 stressed for Alton locks use

(Army Engineer District) Increasing traffic at Locks and Dam No. 26, Alton, has caused, and is expected to continue to result in, congestion and delays to towage desiring to use the facility.

Congestion at the locks and in the vicinity also increases the risks of damage to the structure which would, of course, result in additional delays.

Navigation interests have participated with the Corps of Engineers in the development of existing lockage procedures to obtain optimum usage of the locks.

Regulations for the use, administration, and navigation of the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers above Cairo have been prescribed by the Secretary of the Army pursuant to Section 7 of the River and Harbor Act of Aug. 8, 1917.

An integral part of the established lockage procedures at Locks 26 is the maintenance of radio communications between the lock facility and vessels approaching the locks and those awaiting lockage.

Paragraph (J) Section 207.300 of the Regulations (pg. 4-6 in the Blue Book) prescribes sound signals, light signals and radio communication pertinent to lockages.

Subparagraph J (3) indicates that all locks monitor Channels 13 and 14 of the VHF Marine Radio Band and also work Channel 14.

Vessels not monitoring Channel 14, and not responding to radio calls from the lock, will be considered as being not prepared for lockage and will be dropped to the end of the waiting list.

City sued over Dec. 27 mishap

A $300,000 lawsuit has been filed against Granite City and a city policeman by Mrs. Mary A. Sweeney, 54, of 2828 Burton Ave., who was struck by a police car on a red-light run on Niedringhaus Avenue by St. Elizabeth Medical Center Dec. 27, 1978.

Mrs. Sweeney was injured and her aunt, Mrs. Dora S. Sparks, 79, of 2028 Myrtle Ave., was fatally hurt when they were crossing Niedringhaus Avenue toward the hospital about 6:30 p.m. Dec. 27 and a squad car driven by Patrolman Donald Petrillo approached eastbound with its red lights operating, swerved to avoid the women but struck a curb and careened into them.

Petrillo said he was not using the siren, because he was in a hospital quiet zone. The suit, filed on behalf of Mrs. Sweeney in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville, alleges the police car was being operated at a greater speed than necessary and the driver failed to keep a proper lookout for pedestrians, failed to stop for the red lights, failed to use its siren or Opticom system and failed to avoid the women, thereby injuring Mrs. Sweeney.

It says she suffered a concussion, dislocated right shoulder and hip, broken right leg and pelvis and other injuries.

The suit seeks $150,000 from the city and $150,000 from Petrillo.

As a matter of practicality in this modern era, radio communications have largely supplanted the use of sound signals.

Lockage 26, all information concerning lockages will be broadcast on Channel 14 (156.7 MHz).

Once a vessel has made its initial approach to Locks 26 and signaled its intent and preparedness to lock, further communications while awaiting lockage and during lockage will be made on Channel 14.

Lock operating personnel have reported persistent problems in their attempts to contact waiting tows over the radio.

Repeated instances of unsuccessful attempts to contact waiting boats on Channels 13, 14 and 16 have been reported. Failure to monitor radios and respond to radio calls from lock personnel result in reduced efficiency and additional risk of damage to the structure.

In accordance with paragraph (a), (Page 2 of the Blue Book), entitled "Authority of Lockmasters", all navigation interests are being advised that effective immediately, Channel 14 must be continuously monitored by all boats waiting to transit the locks from the time of initial call in to the lock, until such time as their lockage is completed.

Vessels not monitoring Channel 14, and not responding to radio calls from the lock, will be considered as being not prepared for lockage and will be dropped to the end of the waiting list.

Sues company

A $2 million lawsuit has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court against Miller Excavating, Inc., and Donald W. Miller, an employee of that firm.

The suit alleges that on June 1, 1979, a company vehicle operated by Miller struck an auto driven by Donald L. Wisnasky on Route 40 in St. Jacob Township, resulting in injuries to Wisnasky's five-year-old son, Donald, including a skull fracture which is charged will lead to periodic blindness.

The suit was filed by Wisnasky on behalf of his son and seeks $1 million each from Miller and Miller Excavating.

SUIT AFTER FALL

William L. Chandler has filed a lawsuit in Madison County Circuit Court against Bobby L. and Flora L. Morgan as the result of a Feb. 16, 1978, fall. The suit alleges Chandler was helping pull Morgan's wheelchair up a porch ramp in front of 71st Court, Pontoon Beach, and Chandler slipped on ice and fell, injuring himself. He seeks in excess of $15,000.

MULTI-PURPOSE BUILDING DESIGNED. A model conceptualizing design proposals for the multi-purpose physical education, recreation and athletic building at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is presented to university officers after a week of on-campus conferences between the architects and members of the university community. Looking at the model are: (from the left) Eldon Bigham, acting director of intercollegiate athletics; Bill Thompson, president of Thompson Associates; Troy; Dr. Ria C. Frijters, SIUE vice president for business affairs; Ralph Carroll, vice president of Caudill Rowlett Scott Associate Architects of Houston, Tex.; Dr. Kenneth A. Shaw, president of SIUE; and State Senator Sam Vadala (D-Edwardsville), who introduced the legislation to appropriate planning funds for the project. The Troy and Houston architectural firms are collaborating on the schematic and design development aspects of the project. University officials are hopeful that construction funds for the $12 million structure will be appropriated next year. A site east and slightly north of the Bubble Gym facility has been approved for the building.

Brown going to new plant

Bert O. Brown, currently general supervisor at A. O. Smith's Granite City plant, has been named manufacturing general supervisor at the company's new plant in Milan, Tenn. It was announced by Plant Manager Stanley F. Lindquist.

Brown joined A. O. Smith in Granite City in 1972 as a material handler and later worked as a production machine operator.

In 1974, he became a production supervisor in parts fabrication and in 1976 was promoted to general supervisor.

Other appointments to Milan announced by Lindquist are Robert K. Oberholzer as manufacturing superintendent; Everett H. Nagel as accounting manager; Kenneth L. Fisher as manufacturing engineering and maintenance manager; Eugene G. Haach as quality control manager; and Ben F. Stockard as personnel manager.

James M. Labiszak will be materials control supervisor; Charles R. Czaplewski, tool maintenance supervisor; and James R. Mittelstaedt, general maintenance supervisor.

With the exception of Fisher and Stockard, personnel assigned to Milan are moving from other positions within A. O. Smith. Of the nine, only Brown is currently employed at the Granite City auto frame plant.

According to Lindquist, the effective dates of the appointments will be dependent on the function for which each man is responsible and when his full-time services are required.

The Milan plant is scheduled for completion by the end of 1979, with production of Chrysler Corporation product to begin in early 1980.

Job fair for 900 in CETA

More than 900 youths in the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) Summer Youth Program in Madison County have been invited to attend a "Jobs Jamboree" at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Aug. 6 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The career awareness day will include information booths of area businesses and industries, demonstrations by paramedics, firefighters and the Red Cross, tours of the campus, films, music, and swimming at Tower Lake, where Mark Close of K-SHE radio station will broadcast his program.

The day is being designed for the youths, ages 14 to 21, so that they can "see what they're up against in job competition," according to Marge Andreis-Kuhlman, (662-4317), coordinator of the day.

"The CETA workers have been counseled about the importance of their summer jobs."

"We hope industries will impress on them the importance of their present jobs in obtaining a good job record."

She said it is also important that the event be held at the university so that the young workers can see the need for a "good education for future jobs."

Earnings increase

Post Corporation earned $1,490,000 or 82 cents per share in the second quarter, compared with $1,312,000 or 73 cents per share a year earlier.

The newspaper and broadcasting firm's earnings for 1979's first six months now total $1,927,000 or $1.06 per share. In the first half of 1978, profits were $1,889,000 or $1.04 per share.

With the second quarter's increased earnings, the company thus overcame a relatively weak first quarter, when it earned 94 cents per share compared with 31 cents a year earlier.

A strong performance by the company's Rochester, N.Y., television station, a contribution to profits by Post's newest subsidiary, the Waltham (Mass.) News-Tribune, a "turn-around" performance by its Lakeland (Fla.) newspaper, and an "excellent" quarter enjoyed by Gove Printing Co. were features of the second quarter earnings increase, a spokesman said Monday.

The increase in profit was accomplished despite a $200,000 increase in interest charges, and a $154,000 increase in depreciation.

Post owns and operates newspapers, broadcast stations and commercial printing plants in nine states, including the Press-Record and the Collinsville Herald.

Games for the intellect to be taught

The ninth annual summer course of the SIUE Teachers' Center Project is scheduled Aug. 12-18.

Prof. Thomas C. O'Brien, project director, said the course this year is titled, "Games and Activities for the Intellectual Development of Children."

Guest lecturers will be Prof. Jan Sanfield of All Saints College, London, one of England's most popular textbook authors, and Prof. Jerzy Cwiklo-Godycki of IKIBO, Pedagogical Institute, Warsaw, who is a mathematician, curriculum developer and director of research on children's intellectual growth.

Tuition for the course, offering four quarter hours of graduate credit, is $100. Participants may attend on a day or residential basis. Residential facilities will be available at moderate cost, O'Brien said.

Persons interested in registering may contact Prof. O'Brien, Teachers' Center Project, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville 62026, or may call 692-2118 or 692-3082.

Senior bowlers to sign up now

The Wednesday Afternoon Senior Citizens Bowling League will begin its regular bowling season Wednesday, Aug. 8, at Brunswick Tri-Mor Bowl.

Arthur Roseman, league president, today asked anyone wishing to be placed on a team, or bowl as a substitute, to call 876-9107, or 877-8310.

Those having bowled in the league last year are not required to call and register, Roseman said.

League participation is open to women 55 years and over and men who are 60 and over.

Burglar hits market again

Gus Gillardi, owner-operator of Farmer's Market, East 23rd street and N. Main, reported a burglary Monday, the fourth time the premises have been broken into in recent weeks.

Entry into the market, primarily an outdoor facility, was gained by cutting a hole in the wire fencing and going through a gate.

Stolen this time were two or three gallons of milk and several packages of wieners and bologna.

DAMAGE CHURCH
Vandalism: four windows at Tri-City Park Tabernacle, Maryville Road and Clark Avenue, during the weekend. Estimated damage is $550. Rocks were found near the broken windows.

Struck, cut by woman on street

Dawn Roberson of the 2100 block of Troy Street, Madison, suffered several cuts on the nose and arms at 6:10 p.m. Monday, when she was attacked by a woman who alighted from a vehicle in the 1400 block of 20th Street.

Miss Roberson was walking along the street with a girlfriend when the woman left a vehicle, operated by a man, and started hitting her in the face and pushing her, she said.

Mary Hughes of the 2900 block of Warren Avenue began trying to pull the woman off her friend, when the man got out of the car and struck her, she said.

Police said Miss Roberson had a large cut on the nose, cuts on the arms and was bleeding profusely.

Officers speculated the woman assaulted possibly used keys inserted between the fingers in the attack.

She was described as about five feet, five inches tall and weighing 120 pounds, with long black hair.

The man was slightly built, five feet, seven inches tall and about 23 years old, with light brown hair and a mustache.

Alternative energy plans are debated

The 1979 American Physical Society meeting in Washington brought together individuals with a wide range of views on alternative energy approaches. An often recurring theme was that energy conservation efforts could have significant impact on assuring sufficient energy supplies for the future.

Marc Ross of the University of Michigan said that because of decreasing fluid-fuel resources, and since conversion from liquid fuel to electrical systems has about run its course, the best sources of more fluid fuel are conservation and energy efficiency.

Paul P. Craig of the University of California said increased efficiency standards for refrigerators could cost only about one-third of what would be required to supply the additional electricity that would be needed in the 1980s if such standards were not implemented.

Richard Garwin of IBM advised the economic approach to energy: energy prices should include all the costs involved, such as costs for decommissioning nuclear reactors, and economic rather than thermodynamic efficiency should be paramount.

Conservation, he added, will occur as a natural market-place outcome if prices are sufficiently and realistically high.

Denis Hayes of the World Watch Institute was critical of the government's whole approach to renewable energy sources.

In particular, he referred to a study as yet unreleased by the government that is purported to show that "renewable energy sources could account for up to 30 percent of our supply by the year 2000" and at a cost considerably less than the after-tax increased revenue that would accrue to oil companies as a result of the decontrol of oil.

GASOLINE THEFT Alvin Liebhold, 2211 Cleveland Blvd., reported during the weekend that about five gallons of gasoline were siphoned from his car while it was parked at his home overnight. He told officers that the morning he discovered the theft, he saw other motorists along his block pouring gasoline into their tanks.

Virgil M. Rozell, 67, dies

Virgil M. Rozell, 67, of 2721 Nameoki Drive, a 45-year resident of Granite City, died about 4 p.m. Monday at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis.

Mr. Rozell had been ill the past 13 years. He was a patient for three days at Barnes Hospital, where he had undergone open heart surgery.

Before retiring in 1966, Mr. Rozell was employed for 20 years as an electrician at American Steel Foundries. He was born in Terre Haute, Ind., and lived here since the early 1930's.

Mr. Rozell was a lifetime member of Granite City Moose Lodge, 272, and a member of Local 500 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

His wife, Mrs. Thelma Rozell, who survives, is employed as cashier at Schewe's Corner Confectionery, 2550 Grand Ave. Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. James (Pat) Chien of Granite City; three sons, Arthur Rozell of Billings, Mont., David Rozell of Collinsville and Jim Rozell of East Alton; a brother, Charles Rozell of Monclovia, Ohio; one sister, Mrs. Sina Pierce of Terre Haute; and 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services are scheduled at 1 p.m. today. Details are given in the obituary column.

Deadline for IRS forms

July 31 is the date by which employers must report on Form 941 Social Security and withheld Federal income taxes for the second quarter of 1979, and pay any taxes due, the Internal Revenue Service said.

If the quarterly liability (reduced by any deposit during the quarter) is $200 or more, the unpaid balance must be deposited. This deadline does not apply to those employers who make timely deposits of the full amount of tax due in Federal Reserve or approved commercial banks.

They are allowed until July 31 to file Form 941, "Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return." If employers have not received Form 941 by mail, they can obtain one from local IRS offices. IRS Publication 15, "Circular E—Employer's Tax Guide," is also available at local offices.

Former pastor to lead worship
Rev. Eugene Leckrone will lead the worship and give the sermon Sunday, at Trinity United Methodist Church, corner of E. 25th and Henry streets at 10:40 a.m.

Rev. Leckrone was pastor at Trinity from 1945 to 1948, when the present church sanctuary was constructed. Members look forward to his sermon with anticipation for many people enjoy his preaching, according to Rev.

Paula Laster, 2221 Lee Ave., arrived home at 3 p.m. Monday to find her 19-inch portable television outside a bedroom window, between the fence and the house.

An entrance door was unlocked and the drawers and a closet in a bedroom had been ransacked. All other drawers and cabinets in the dwelling had been searched.

Taken were a 23 channel citizen's band radio, a Polaroid camera, a movie projector, a Petri 35mm camera, a silver beer bucket containing about $10 in coins and lunch meat and soft drinks from the refrigerator.

Area mourns death of member of GC school family

The entire community mourns the death of Ralph Frohardt, a son of the founder of the Granite City schools.

A retired teacher and principal, he not only followed in the same career but looked remarkably like the late L. F. Frohardt. The latter was the lone teacher when Kinder School was opened here for 32 pupils on the present Emerson campus in 1884; he remained to become superintendent of the grade schools and high school, and it was during his administration that Granite City was named Emerson, Washington, McKinley, Central, Webster and other school facilities. Frohardt Elementary School on Johnson Road is named for Supl. L. F. Frohardt. Since several of his descendants also became associated with the schools, the building appropriately calls lasting attention to an entire family of devoted educators.

Allen candidacy assures lively '80 primary election

With the election of Emil Toffant, Mick Henkhaus and Evelyn Bowles as independent candidates for Madison County offices in 1978, it became a certainty that more independents would strive for offices in the next countywide balloting in 1980.

First to announce his intentions is an aspirant for state's attorney (county prosecutor), Attorney Dick Allen. Chairman of Granite City Democratic committeemen (city chairman) in 1962, he has been identified primarily with the liberal or independent wing of the party, being active on behalf of such candidates as Eugene McCarthy and Dan Walker. The numerous groups with which he has been associated include the YMCA, Coordinated Youth Services, Common Cause, Coalition for the Environment and Legal Aid Society. He fought along with General Patton in France, Germany and Austria in World War II.

On the staff of the public defender's office in Madison County since 1971 and a former city attorney and assistant state's attorney, Allen has extensive legal as well as political experience. His entry into what may become a crowded field helps assure a lively, issue-oriented campaign leading up to the March primary election.

'Youth who listens to music can't appreciate reality'

Aside from a few hundred streamlined executions, including several "ladies of the evening," the supposedly religious freedom regime of Ayatollah Khomeini in Iran has "protected" the populace with such "I have a direct hotline to God" decrees as those requiring facial veils, banning mixed swimming, and outlawing music on television and radio.

Fortunately, we live in America, where Congress is about to safeguard our political freedom by giving arbitrary gasoline limiting authority (in the event of a crisis) to a crisis-prone governmental executive branch that already has protected our energy independence by decreasing that we must be hot in summer and cold in winter.

No, we're not saying the United States is on the way toward Iran-like repression. But it is a bit worrisome to see so much "doublepeak," as was predicted in the book "1984," in which opposite definitions are used to sugar-coat the description of new policies and regulations. In Washington, they already have a name for the practice—gobbledygook.

As noted, the old book about excessive government control was published in 1949, titled "1984." Let's see now; what year is this?

2 held, third is sought in stabbing of Schooley

Two men are in custody charged with attempted murder and a warrant has been issued for a third man's arrest in connection with Saturday's stabbing of John O. "Jack" Schooley, 24, of 2620 E. 27th St., in the north parking lot of Charlie's Restaurant.

Schooley is recuperating from five stab wounds to his neck, back, side, chest and abdomen, including one which was very close to his heart.

Charged with attempted murder are John E. Ashburn, 26, of 208 Warsaw Lane, Mitchell, and Dennis McIntosh, 27, of French Village. Police declined to identify the third man they are seeking.

"It was apparently just a senseless and wild thing, as far as we have been able to determine," according to Granite City Capt. Bob Astorian.

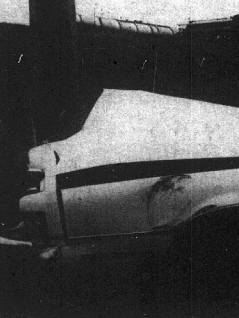

He said evidence indicates Schooley—the son of Granite City Township Attorney William Schooley—took a girlfriend home and then returned to the parking lot of the restaurant where a car containing three men stopped near him and one yelled something at Schooley.

Schooley yelled something back, turned to go into the restaurant and was attacked from behind by the three men, police believe. Officers feel the three men had been drinking in a Madison tavern and had not associated with Schooley during the evening. They did not even know him, as far as police have been able to determine.

Detectives have been interviewing Schooley daily since the attack. At first the wound to his neck necessitated a tracheal tube which made it difficult to talk to him. The tube has since been removed and officers said Schooley has been very talkative.

Ashburn first was arrested after a fight at the Inn Between Tavern, 5200 Maryville Road, Saturday night. Kevin Lewis, 23, of 2121 Cheshire Court, suffered

ACCIDENT THIS MORNING at Rock Road and Illinois Route 3 shortly after 7:30 which involved the car in foreground and the car at right center at the top of the hill. The car in foreground was apparently struck broad side by the second car, sending it down the embankment and into a utility pole on the southwest corner of the intersection. The car at the top of the hill is seen facing northward in the southbound lanes on top of a sheared-off stop sign. Injuries of the five persons involved in the mishap were unavailable. An ambulance was stopped by a train on its way to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with victims of the accident.

FUEL SHORTAGE? You ain't seen nothing yet

By L.S. CLEMENS

CHICAGO — Believe it, folks. The gasoline crisis is real.

And it doesn't make any difference whether it's caused by the cutoff of shipments from Iran, price fixing, or even the conspiracy dreamed up by the John Birch Society.

(This time around, the society, according to its "investigative reporter," Al Stang, has mixed the major oil companies and leading U.S. banks into the plot with its everyday enemy, communism — which, one is compelled to believe, must be pretty close to the organization's outer limits.)

The resistance to the thought of a continuing shortage is understandable. Acceptance means acknowledgment of a change in the American lifestyle, and that's hard to take.

And there is going to be some bitter moments before we move into a new pattern. Independent truckers are the first to illustrate this point.

They have been blockading highways and truck stops, marching (or rolling) on Washington to protest the rising price of diesel fuel, now nearing the $1 per gallon mark.

The change this shortage portends, if the economic levers of supply and demand work as they are supposed to, is probably a return to a less convenient but a more efficient way of hauling heavy goods — railroads and river tows, which was the way it was done before cheap fuel and a highway system built with tax money made the heavy truck kind of that can't be done immediately, though: "There aren't enough freight cars, trackage, trained personnel or locomotives to do the job. (The much abused KAT reports it can stand no more than a 15 percent increase in ridership without facing an equipment shortage.)"

In our insistence that the oil companies are robbing us, which may even be correct, we overlook the fact that their management knows that sky-high prices are going to mean less in the way of sales, fewer cars, fewer energy sources of all kinds — a lessening of the size of their industry, a reduction in its importance.

That will come about because there are, indeed, other forms of energy to be exploited — coal most of all if nuclear energy fails by the wayside, the sun, wind, natural gas developed from many sources, alcohol, hydrogen, perhaps other fuels usable in internal combustion engines.

But these, too, take time to develop, to manufacture, to sell, and each, too, spells change in our way of doing things.

In the meantime, we grasp for straws. For instance, there is that song growing in popularity that advocates the trading of American food for oil.

Its theme: Oil countries need food more than we do oil. Why? Because the rulers can't permit their people to go hungry?

We forget the oil of the Arabian countries is in the hands of a very few chieftains, and when more money is coming in than can be spent by these few, a portion in income from a flood to a river is no hardship.

More, these are backward lands in which starvation is the norm. Food is not a weapon when the starving, illiterate masses have no guns and do not know how to use them. It is available from any source.

It is apparently completely true that this country has vast reserves of oil, shale rock that is even more plentiful than all that is underground.

It also apparently is true that coal, in reserves even larger than shale oil, can be converted to gas and other fuels that will meet today's criterion for clean heat and power.

And electricity is there for the taking.

But it also is true that while the technology exists to make all these new sources of energy, it isn't on the production line today.

Until it gets there, the energy crisis is for real.

Its end will bring a different tomorrow.

A more cheerful note might bring this to a close: The situation still will be, perhaps somewhat wiser, but, in all likelihood, as sassy as ever.

WHEAT MARKET PRICES

Reaping profits for speculators

By CHARLYN FARGO

SPRINGFIELD — The wheat market has taken a definite upswing recently throughout the country.

Price increases of more than 16 cents per day have become normal.

The reason for this is threefold, according to Leonard Seuss of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith.

The first reason for this is that Argentina reportedly has sold all its surplus crop and won't have any more to sell until its end of the year harvest.

Wheat prices are normally falling during this time of harvest. "Once again, that old law of supply and demand wins. More people are wanting to buy wheat than sell it," Seuss said.

He predicts wheat will drop in the near future, turning it "a technical correction." What this means is the market will automatically level itself off.

That coupled with the usual harvest decline should put wheat below $4 on a July contract.

However, the long-term future of wheat exports looks bright. "Wheat prices may weaken during the mid-year harvest in the United States, but can again move higher following that. The United States is the principal source for wheat on the world market until Southern Hemisphere crops become available at the end of this year," according to Cornelius.

The business of selling grain on the futures market is not a nickel and dime operation.

And it's not just for farmers. Without ever putting a grain of wheat in the ground, speculators can make any money and lose thousands of dollars.

Called speculators, those buying a wheat contract on

$1,000 on a contract that could be worth $20,000, for

If wheat prices go up, the

GRANITE CITY (III.) PRESS-RECORD, Thursday, July 26, 1979—23

'Hamburger, French fries ... and beer'

GRANITE CITY — Soccer wasn't the only thing the visiting soccer team from Oberursel, West Germany did while it was in Granite City last weekend.

Even though the Southern Illinois Select Team handed its guests a 4-0 defeat, the foreign visitors left the steel city with nothing but warm feelings.

After their mid-day arrival here, the German players joined their Granite City host families for some "down-home" cooking. At the John Yount home, the Germans were treated to an American classic — hot dogs and beans. The guests were elated, to say the least.

Greg White and Robbie Mann treated their German guests to dinner at McDonald's. While there are McDonald's franchises in West Germany, things are just a little different at the restaurants in America than they are there.

One of the young German boys stepped to the counter (just as he had done hundreds of times at McDonald's in his own country) and proudly ordered in his broken English, "Hamburger, french fries ... and a beer. He didn't mean root beer, either. In Germany, McDonald's restaurants sell beer ... the national drink in that country. The German guest had to settle for something a little sweeter than beer in the Granite City McDonald's.

Another young German found the Big Mac sandwich to be such a bargain in this country that he ordered FOUR. They sell for around $1.75 each in West Germany, compared to the below-$1 price in Granite City.

Granite City soccer player Dan DeRousse gave his guests a grand-tour of Granite City and the Horseshoe Lake area ... in a pickup truck.

Lloyd Sharp and Rich Moore also gave their guests a tour of the area in their vehicles.

The main course on the menu, however, was instant friendship. Granite City's Gerhardt Maass, who came to this country from Germany, gave a barbecue for the German adults at his home — temporarily turning it into a German home once more. Saturday, the guests were treated to a picnic at the Mann home near Collinsville.

Friday night, the young guests were treated to a "teen night" at the Paddlers'

Swim Club in Granite City. There, they made new friends, swam, and even chased a greased watermelon.

There weren't any government officials at this cultural exchange. No big deals. Just down-to-earth families. It might be better that way.

American Legion playoffs ...

Darkness, Alton conspire against Tri-City

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record

GODFREY — It's almost as if nature, umpires, and, most importantly, the opposing team were testing Tri-City in the District 22 playoffs in American Legion baseball.

The test would be to see how much pressure Tri-City can stand.

The opposing team is Alton. The score is 7-7. It's the top of the eighth inning at Lewis and Clark Junior College in the finals of the North Division playoffs.

Rain and darkness forced the postponement of the game Tuesday going into extra innings. Then with more rain Wednesday, the game was pushed back until tonight.

There was enough pressure going into the game for Tri-City. A loss against Alton will mean the conclusion of Tri-City's season. It would be Tri-City's second loss of the double-elimination tournament. Since Alton has yet to lose, Tri-City would need back-to-back wins over it for the District 22 title.

But now the must-win situation turns into must score, and Tri-City has had 48 hours to mull that over in Alton's minds.

"Sure, the pressure's on us," Tri-City manager Kirk Champion said. "But they're thinking about it just like we are."

In some respects, the long delay might even work to Tri-City's advantage. Going into the seventh inning, Tuesday, Tri-City led by one run, having seen a first inning 5-0 lead whittled down over the span of six innings.

The heart of Tri-City's line-up was due to bat. It was a critical point in the game, where either team could tip the flow of the game's way.

Alton retired the middle of Tri-City's line-up, and the game's direction changed.

"They definitely had the momentum," Champion said. "They had 10 hits in the last five innings."

The feeling that Alton would score in the bottom of the seventh was imminent. After a lead-off pop up to the second baseman, Alton went to work.

Dan Morrissey singled to short right field, then stole second. That brought Steve Hawkins to the plate.

Hawkins, despite a bad leg, lifted a line drive over a jumping Jim Thurman at first, driving in Morrissey.

The game was tied with two outs.

The umpire in on the base paths signaled out.

He was overruled by the plate umpire, who said the ball was dead at the time because time was out.

The resulting argument culminated in the ejection of Tri-City catcher Mark Linhart. But the next batter ended the game with a pop to Thurman.

Tri-City let a five run lead dwindle in what was surely its biggest game of the year.

"We may have let down a little after the first. We only had one hit in three innings after that," Champion said.

Tri-City built the lead on Alton's errors. Kevin Sykes led off the game with a single. Jeff Parker followed, drawing a walk.

Jeff Tretter then doubled in Sykes, with Parker following. The throw to the plate was dropped by the Alton's catcher, allowing Parker to score and Tretter to go to third.

After two consecutive strike-outs, another error, off the bat off Thurman scored Tretter. Blake Ambuehl singled home Thurman from second, and DeGonia's single and stolen base, which drew an errant throw from the catcher allowed Ambuehl to score.

The game progressed swiftly through the next two innings, but in the fourth Alton began to eat away at the Tri-City's comfortable lead.

Dan Morrissey's triple and Chuck Matthews' single provided Alton a run in the fourth.

Morrissey tripled again in the fifth for two of three runs, which made the score 7-4.

The sixth was the last inning Tretter, Tri-City's starting pitcher, began. He was lifted after Dave Ringhausen drove in the second Alton run of the inning with a single. The first run came on Doug Henderson's RBI single.

"We may have lived one batter too long with Tretter," Champion said in retrospect. "But we made two mistakes that really hurt us. We threw home in the sixth and let a runner go to second where he scored, and in the fifth we tried for a tough force out at second instead of going to first for the second out. That runner scored too."

Tri-City added two runs to hold on to its lead in the fifth. Parker doubled and scored on Tretter's error, and Jim Lewis singled and scored on error by Alton's pitcher on a ball hit by Bob Stegemeier.

"Now it comes down to who can punt play better defense," Champion said. "If either team scores in the eighth inning it may be over quick, but if neither team scores it may last four or five innings."

But Edwardsville came right back with a run of its own in the seventh inning against reliever Mike DeGonia. Jamie Semanish, the Edwardsville center fielder walked leading off the inning. Second baseman Phil Conreux bunted him over to second. First baseman Kevin Yakos singled, scoring Semanish.

Tri-City again came up with heroics in the bottom of the seventh. DeGonia singled, leading off. He went to second when third baseman Jim Vrenick walked. Over to second and third by a Linhart bunt.

Sykes then hit into a fielder's choice to the second baseman. DeGonia scored on the play.

"It seems as if we don't get pumped up about a game until it's almost too late," said Champion. "Early in the game, we didn't seem to have much enthusiasm at all. I don't know what it takes. Maybe we have to be behind."

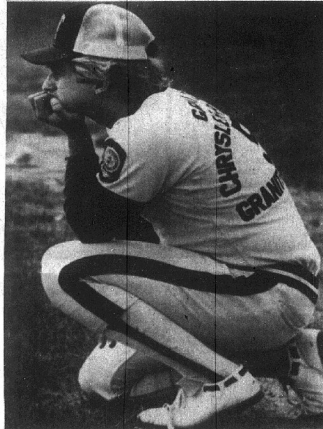

Tri-City wasn't behind much longer. Edwardsville failed to score in the top of the eighth — thanks to a nifty double play started by substitute first baseman Steve Flicker. With a runner on first, Edwardsville's Whitworth smacked a shot to Flicker. He reeled to his right, flipped to ball to second baseman Sykes, who threw to DeGonia covering first to complete the double play.

"Did you see that?" he asked Champion. "We had our backs right up against the wall and we came through."

Rally gives 113 finals berth

By PETE HAYES

of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Hollywood couldn't have written a better script.

Tri-City American Legion Post 113's baseball team had its back to the wall here Monday in a loser's bracket semifinal game against Edwardsville. A loss for either team would end its season. A win, on the other hand would send it into the championship finals against Alton. Tri-City was behind, came back to tie the score, fell behind again, and tied it once more before taking a 5-4 extra-inning decision from Edwardsville.

Blake Ambuehl's one-out base hit up the gap in left-center field scored teammate Jim Thurman in the bottom of the eighth inning to give Tri-City the victory.

Tri-City did its best to dig a grave for itself early. Edwardsville reached starter Dave Weil for three runs in the second inning with the help of back-to-back doubles by Ken Schaeke and Whitworth.

Tri-City countered with a run of its own in the third frame. With one out, catcher Mark Linhart singled. He went to second when Kevin Sykes got a base hit and scored on a single off the bat of third baseman Jeff Parker.

In the sixth, Tri-City tied the score. Sykes led off with a single. He moved to second when Parker reached base on an error by the Edwardsville shortstop. Jeff Tretter reached base on another error by the shortstop, which allowed Sykes to score. Right fielder Jim Lewis then cracked a double leading off. He went to second when third baseman Jim Vrenick walked. Over to second and third by a Linhart bunt.

Sykes then hit into a fielder's choice to the second baseman. DeGonia scored on the play.

Tri-City wasn't behind much longer. Edwardsville failed to score in the top of the eighth — thanks to a nifty double play started by substitute first baseman Steve Flicker. With a runner on first, Edwardsville's Whitworth smacked a shot to Flicker. He reeled to his right, flipped to ball to second baseman Sykes, who threw to DeGonia covering first to complete the double play.

"Did you see that?" he asked Champion. "We had our backs right up against the wall and we came through."

"We came back, didn't we?" asked Champion. "We had our backs right up against the wall and we came through."

Guess what is going on at South?

By PETE HAVES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — The years of waiting are about over for the Granite City High School South Booster Club.

The Booster Club, which came up with the idea of trying to finance a drive to install lights at the South baseball and soccer fields on Fehling Road, nearly five years ago, is about to see its dream come true — thanks to some hard work and some very generous local people.

The Boosters raised some $15,000 for the lights. That was far from enough. The Granite City Jaycees then pledged a little over $10,000 to the cause. After the Jaycees were honored at the 50-yard line before the GCIS North-South football game last fall, the money started coming in with more regularity.

The biggest chunk of the lights will be paid for with the $50,000 donated by the Granite City Township. The Township Board authorized the contribution.

The poles for the lights were unloaded at the field Tuesday — all eight of them — by workers for the R. Dron Electric Company of Granite City. The lights will be forthcoming and everything should be in place for night soccer this fall at South.

"This is a dream come true," said Franz Feigl, president of the Booster Club. "We originally came up with this idea about five years ago. But it took us a while to figure out how to do it. These lights ain't cheap, you know."

The head of the lighting fund drive was South baseball coach Conrad "Babe" Champion. "Isn't it great?" he asked. "We're a little behind schedule, but we'll get it done."

The plans for installing lights at South haven't exactly been met by applause from all corners of the city. Some residents of Lueders Estates, which is next to the South fields, have voiced opposition, stating they feel the increased activity after dark will be detrimental to the neighborhood. Others feel the money spent could have been used for other purposes.

But all that is water under the bridge now. The poles are there and the lights are on their way.

The lights that will be placed atop the gigantic poles will provide lighting better than that at Memorial Football Stadium, which it adjoins. All eight of the poles are the same height as the two tallest center poles at the football field.

"We think that with lights, this will be the best baseball facility in the area," said Feigl. "We know we have the best playing surface. This will be like icing on the cake."

It hasn't been easy for Champion, Feigl and the Boosters. They've watched as communities like Edwardsville have turned abandoned dump yards into beautiful-lighted baseball facilities — while they were still trying to figure out how to get started with their own lighting fund.

Much of the credit should go to Champion — whether the modest mentor wants it or not. When he took over as baseball coach at GCIS, the present baseball field on Fehling Road was a mess. "It was a mess," he said once. "Water stood everywhere, the infield was in terrible shape."

But Champion and his coaches, sons and players went to work on the field. They have turned it into one of the best high school — no, make that simply baseball — facilities around. It is so good, in fact, that the Illinois Junior College State Baseball Tournament played several of its preliminary round games there this spring.

With lights, other such tournaments may come to Granite City. To spend money in Granite City, buying team meals, staying in motels. Not only baseball, but soccer too.

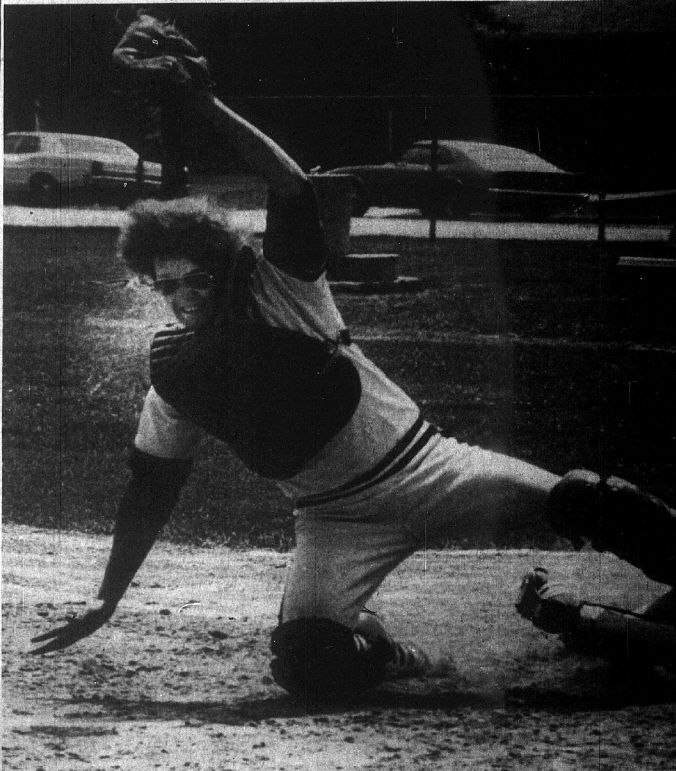

The plans are to build a concession building at the site and install below-ground dugouts. Feigl said other plans are in the works to improve the facility even more.

But the first step — the lights — is about to be taken. Finally.

WORKERS from the R. Dron Electric Co. of Granite City unload light poles which will be used for the new lights at the Granite City High School South Athletic Complex on Fehling Road.

The poles were unloaded Tuesday. At top, workers maneuver the large poles off of the truck bed. It is hoped that the lights will be up in time for the fall soccer season.

The name is Mark, not Greg

By TOM SCHOCKER
for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — "And now, batting for the Philadelphia Phillies. Mark Linhart..." or should that be Greg Linhart? Which ever, the Linhart brothers have promising futures in the game of baseball.

If your memory seems a bit fuzzy, let's get the record straight. Greg Linhart is presently a second baseman for Bend, Oregon, a rookie club in the Philadelphia Phillie organization. Mark, the younger brother, is a catcher for Tri-City Post 113 American Legion team.

"People always get my name mixed up with Greg's," said Mark Linhart. "My high school coach, Babe Champion, would always call me Greg." Greg Linhart, a 74 graduate from Granite City South, played college ball at Illinois State and was signed as a free agent by the Phillies.

With the talent already in the family, could Mark be following in the footsteps of his older brother? "I never thought of following in Greg's footsteps," said a modest Mark Linhart. "He's got a rough schedule. He plays everyday. That's a lot of work."

Mark had nothing but praise for his senior sibling. "He's doing a good job," said Linhart. "I think he's batting around .270 and playing regularly. Maybe he will move up. I really hope so."

Babe Champion must have been truly fortunate to have both Linharts playing for him. Younger Linhart was a recent graduate from Granite City South. Although he is presently behind the plate he has played various positions. While in high school, Linhart played the hot third base for his freshman and sophomore years.

Come junior year, he went to the mound for Champion but not with the greatest amount of enjoyment. "I was a relief pitcher," said

The younger Linhart has played many spots, but likes catching best

Linhart. "It was the best position I thought I could play."

Linhart moved behind the plate his senior year from throwing the ball to catching it. "I use to warm-up the pitchers during practice," explained Linhart. "But when our regular starting catcher got hurt I was thrown into the line-up. Batting was a whole different thing to me because I never had a chance to bat when I was throwing. I have slowly improved my style."

Linhart has been catching since then, but what position will be next? "I really like catching," said Linhart. "I feel more comfortable there. In the beginning my knees would hurt but now I'm use to it."

Whereas most young ball players shift around from team to team and league to league when coming up in the game, Linhart has stayed with just one league for most of his young playing days. "I started in the Park League at about age 8 or 9 with the first atom team," said Linhart. "I guess they are the lowest form of Park League team you can start with. I played in that league for eight years and I must have played every position but outfield. I never could play outfield."

From the Park league, Linhart went to high school and Tri-City Post 113. What effects could all those years in one league have on him? "I think the park league definitely helped me," said Linhart. "I don't think I could have played high school ball without it."

The graduation from high school for Linhart didn't mean the end of a promising baseball career. "I'm really undecided," said Linhart. "But I am leaning towards STU-Edwardsville. I would like to go out for the team and see if I could compete with them."

The thoughts of the future are in his mind but Linhart must be thinking of his team's chances for the District 22 championship, which is now in progress. "We tied Altam 7-7. Tuesday but darkness and rain halted the game," explained Linhart. "A win over them would give us a big lift towards the championship."

Linhart also has to deal with the head man of his team — Coach Kirk Champion, who is much older than him. "At first it was hard to get use to," said Linhart. "But by now we can deal with it. Kirk (Champion) is a good coach and he knows a heck of a lot about baseball."

The right attitude and ability to play has given Linhart every right to follow his brother's footsteps. Maybe someday that announcer might be correct when he says: "And now batting for the St. Louis Cardinals, Mark Linhart..."

No more shoes

GRANITE CITY Student athletes in the Granite City School District are being notified that the District will no longer purchase and provide athletic shoes for athletes in junior and senior high schools. The new policy is effective the 1979-80 school year.

The existing supply of shoes will be used until it is depleted. After that, athletes will be responsible for providing their own shoes.

The practice of having student athletes provide their own shoes is widespread because of the financial strain being placed on school systems nationwide.

The practice was adopted by the Granite City School District because of a desire by the administration to continue offering the athletic programs it does, rather than be forced to eliminate some programs.

Paddlers drop first; to host SWISA diving

ALTON — The Paddlers Swimming team suffered its first defeat of the season here Tuesday at the hands of Summersport. The Paddlers divers, however, kept their record clean by taking a victory over the hosts.

This Saturday, Paddlers will serve as the host for the annual Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association (SWISA) Conference diving meet.

Gail McCormick, the Paddlers diving coach, is serving as "unofficial" meet director, along with official directors Armand Allen and George Amisch.

"We expect around 105 divers or so," said McCormick. "It will be a long day, beginning at 9 in the morning and going till around 4 in the afternoon."

Last year's conference meet was held at Sunset Hills near Edwardsville, with Summersport coming away the conference champion. This year, McCormick hopes her team can do better. "If the kids dive as well as they can, I think we can finish pretty high," she said. "But in a conference meet with so many people, it's a lot harder than in a dual."

McCormick explained, "In a dual, your divers are just one-on-one against the other team. But in a larger meet like this one, it's more or less a process of elimination. We might win a dual by getting more second or thirds than the other team. But in a conference meet, you don't accumulate points like that."

Each team will be allowed to enter two divers in each age group. There are seven teams in the conference, so that makes for 14 competitors in each category. What goes into hosting a large meet like this one? "We have to get professional from St. Louis, we have to make sure the people on the scoring table are aware of what's going on all the time," said McCormick. "We also have to allow for a break time. The judges have to take a break now and then because all the dives start looking alike after while."

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE. Employees of a downtown Granite City furniture store found it difficult to keep up with water coming under the front doors everytime a vehicle passed during "high water" Wednesday morning. A water vacuum cleaner was used, but water came under the doors faster than employees could capture it. Nineteenth Street with water covering the street and sidewalk, can be seen in the background.

Pontoon to pay $1.04 a gallon for gasoline

Unable to get responses on a call for bids to supply gasoline to Pontoon Beach village police and street department vehicles, the village board voted Tuesday night to purchase unleaded gasoline at $1.04 per gallon from Spartan Service on Route 111 south of Route 162.

Village Clerk Mary Warren said no bids to supply the village gasoline needs were received, so she received price quotations on the telephone from several stations and found Spartan lowest at $1.04 per gallon.

"It was just impossible to get anyone to bid a firm price on gasoline, the way the market is right now," Mrs. Warren told the Press-Record.

In other business Tuesday night, Board President Paul Bennett appointed a four-member Building and Finance Committee to investigate whether adequate funding can be found to construct a $60,000 building for a village hall on the 9.8 acre tract of land the village has purchased on Route 111.

Bennett said he will contact the county's community development office to determine if $39,000 requested for the building is still available. He charged the committee with investigating all other possible financing means and report back to the board within 30 days.

Members of the new Harold Cavins heads Lhasa Apso Club

At a meeting of the Lhasa Apso Club of Greater St. Louis, officers and directors were elected. Serving one-year terms will be: Harold Cavins, 3315 Wabash Ave., Granite City, president; Barrett Cresswell, vice-president; Patty Chapman, secretary; and Jo Ann Meyer, treasurer.

The board of directors will be composed of Marian Cavins, Don Helfrich and Joe Hampton, immediate past president.

The Lhasa Apso Club meets on the first Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. Each meeting includes an educational program. Among recent featured guests were professional handlers, a professional groomer and a canine nutrition expert, as well as a Lhasa Apso in an obedience demonstration.

An American Kennel Club sanctioned show is an annual event sponsored by the Lhasa Apso Club. Membership is open to all owners and breeders of Lhasa Apos who reside in the metropolitan area. Information may be obtained by calling 618-452-7130 in Illinois or 314-822-0639 in Missouri.

Building and Finance Committee are Keith Biggs, Raymond Gaudette Jr., Loren Madison and Duane Skinner, all village trustees.

The committee's first meeting was last night with the township special sewer committee to discuss the possibility of the sewer committee leasing or using a portion of the 9.8 acre tract for sewer billing offices and service shops.

The sewer committee has requested to purchase part of the village's property.

Raises of five percent were granted, retroactive to May 1, for all the village's policemen, including the two employed under the Manpower program. Manpower funding for Patrolmen Michael Staicoff and Michael Crouch will expire Sept. 1, and the village has signed letters of intent that the two will be put on the regular payroll when Manpower funding expires.

The trustees requested that Mrs. Warren contact Illinois Federal Savings & Loan Association to request that the former Wholesale Carpet store on Pontoon Road be demolished. The store was destroyed by fire several months ago and is owned by Illini, it was explained.

Mrs. Warren said Wednesday she has contacted Illini officials who said they are seeking bids on the cost of demolishing the building and will advise the village after a decision is made.

Hearing underway on I-270 route

A public hearing on two proposed routes for extending Interstate 270 to connect with Interstate 70-55 between Granite City and Collinsville is underway at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and will conclude with a presentation on the two proposals at 7:30 Tuesday.

Representatives of the Illinois Department of Transportation and other officials are on hand at the Madison Room of the University Center until 5 p.m. today and will return at 6:30 p.m. to give citizens an opportunity to review the project prior to the 7:30 presentation.

The project will cost from $63.4 million to $67.3 million, depending on the route selected.

$600 BURGLARY

Four shotguns and about $100 in change were stolen from the home of Robert Orender, 207 Paradise Lane, Mitchell, early this week. Entry was believed gained through the rear garage door. The missing items were valued at $600 or more.

False report to police alleged

Joseph Szepepanik Jr., 4045 Rode Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct Tuesday night for allegedly filing a false police report claiming his car had been stolen.

Roland Bade, owner of a field of beans at 3000 Pontoon Road, alleged Szepepanik's auto had gone into his field about 5 p.m. Tuesday and Szepepanik had given Bade the keys to the vehicle, pledging to return to pay $35 for the damage to the beans.

It is alleged Szepepanik then called sheriff's deputies and said he wanted to report the vehicle had been stolen. Deputies agreed to meet him at the Pontoon Beach Police Department, but when the deputy arrived there, he was told Szepepanik had cancelled the appointment, the deputy said.

He went to Szepepanik's home and Szepepanik said he wanted to report the car had been stolen near Wilson Park in Granite City, the deputy said.

The officer reported he told the young man and took him to the bean field where Bade alleged he was the youth who had driven the car in the field and had agreed to return to pay for the damages.

Szepepanik then was arrested.

Father of local resident buried

Word has been received here of the funeral on July 2 of Wenzel F. Wodohodsky, a lifelong resident of Dixon, Mo., and the father of Mrs. Jack (Rosemary) Blyue of Madison.

Mr. Wodohodsky, 89, died June 30 at Phelps County Memorial Hospital in Rolla, Mo.

He and his wife, Mrs. Agnes Wodohodsky, who survives, observed their 50th anniversary May 5.

Also surviving are two other daughters, three sons, nine grandsons, three great-granddaughters and one great-granddaughter.

Four sisters, two brothers and a 25-year-old grandson preceded him in death.

Funeral mass was said at St. Theresa's Church in Dixon, with burial in Eagan Cemetery there.

STEAL POODLE

Mrs. Janet Hans, 4010 Braden Ave., reported at 9:05 p.m. Monday the theft of her white toy poodle named "Peggy," which had been outside the home on a leash the evening of July 19. The animal, worth $75, was wearing a light brown collar with silver studs on it, the owner said, adding at first she thought the pet had strayed but now believes it to be stolen.

HURT IN CRASH

Mrs. Cathy Barr, 20, of 1038 Third St., Venice, was treated early this week at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after an auto she was driving was involved in an accident. She suffered neck pain and was X-rayed and released.

Prepare for '80 Madison appropriation

A special meeting for the purpose of passing the 1979-80 budget for the City of Madison was announced during the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday night.

The meeting is scheduled for Monday, July 30, at 7:30 p.m. The council is expected to consider budgeting about $1.8 million and to include a seven percent raise for full-time city employees.

Also included in the proposed budget is a provision for $280,000 to be used to build a rail spur running east and west through the Stephen Maers Industrial Park, connecting to the Illinois Terminal tracks. Sixty percent of the funds will come from a federal grant; 40 percent will be paid by tenants of the industrial complex, which is owned by the city, in addition to their rent.

An ordinance was passed setting standards for the grade level of the railroad crossings in the 1300 block of State, Madison, Iowa and Washington. The ordinance provides that all grade crossings along that section of track, belonging to the Illinois Terminal Railroad, will be at a level specified by the city.

It was passed in conjunction with an action filed by the City of Madison with the Illinois Commerce Commission against the railroad and the Department of Transportation, State of Illinois, seeking crossing improvements.

John Belcoff, city clerk, said city officials were taking the stand because "we have been listening to promises (from the railroad) for too many years" regarding the condition of track areas.

Aldermen voted to erect four way stop signs at 13th and Iowa streets and a stop sign affecting southbound traffic on McCambridge Avenue at Elizabeth Street.

Car license '80 sticker applications

Alan J. Dixon said yesterday that his office is ready to implement the next step of his multi-year, staggered-registration automobile licensing program.

Secretary of State Dixon said 4.8 million Illinois automobile owners "will be receiving 1980 sticker applications between now and Oct. 1."

The new red stickers will replace the blue (short-term) stickers purchased earlier this year.

Almost two million motorists used the long option plan this year and already have red 1980 stickers. They will not have to renew their automobile registration until the spring of 1980 for 1981.

"The changeover to our five-year licensing program is going smoothly," Dixon said. "In this next step, motorists need only to check their rear license plate to see if they have a blue sticker."

"If they do, they'll be getting a pre-printed application from our office and should follow the clear instructions to purchase their renewal."

The multi-year license program is expected to save the state $21 million in the first five years. Other benefits, Dixon believes, will come from increased efficiency in the office, quicker service to motorists, and more accurate and extensive record keeping.

"The first over-the-counter sale of stickers will begin Aug. 1 for renewals of September expirations," Dixon said. "Stickers for Oct. 31 and Nov. 30 expirations will go on sale Sept. 1 and Oct. 1."

Sticker sales will be sold at the three major Secretary of State motor vehicle facilities in Chicago; a new Centennial Building at 1000 N. Dearborn; and at participating financial institutions throughout the state.

HOLDING BACK THE FLOOD.

Dorothy Williams had only a mop and a bucket to keep rising waters on 19th Street in downtown Granite City from covering the floor of the Hub Drugs, 1320 Nineteenth St., Wednesday morning. Several downtown stores experienced water coming under their front doors when flash flooding covered streets and sidewalks in the downtown area. Only minor damage was reported. Some store owners wondered why the flooded streets were not closed while the water was high, since passing cars and trucks which made waves were responsible for most of the water which entered the stores.

Home loans proceed

Granite City officials prepared today to go ahead immediately with the sale of $10 million in revenue bonds to finance low-interest home mortgages and thus step up home buying in the city.

Mayor Paul Schuler, City Attorney Lance Callis and Arvil Taylor, administrative aide to the mayor, were in New York today to meet with representatives of Standard & Poor's rating authorities to determine interest rates that would apply to the bonds and to mortgage loans financed with the bond proceeds. The three officials left for New York yesterday.

Mayor Schuler told the City Council Tuesday night that it was decided to go ahead with the mortgage home loan plan after the mayor was informed that Congress is expected to pass new legislation soon governing the home loan program.

Primarily, the new law will eliminate the interest-free status of bonds sold to finance the programs. City officials were notified earlier, however, that cities which had approved mortgage home loan programs prior to April 25 this year, when the new legislation was introduced, would be permitted to go ahead with their programs without affect from the new law.

Granite City had been delaying action until the legislation appeared certain of adoption and therefore establishing the city's exemption from the interest-bearing affect upon the bond sale.

The Granite City Council approved a $10 million bond issue on March 27. The plan would enable the city to support home mortgage loans through regular lending agencies at a rate estimated on today's market at 8.25 to 8.5 percent. Most home loans through regular channels today cost about 10 percent.

Several area financial institutions and lending agencies have indicated they will act as brokers for the home mortgages.

The Continental Bank of Chicago is designated as the holding bank for the money and will process applications taken by local brokers.

British Isles tour with symphony

Robin L. Robertson of Granite City will tour the British Isles with the St. Louis Symphony Youth Orchestra of which she has been a member for two years.

The 110-member Youth Orchestra will represent the United States as "good will ambassadors" in the British Isles from July 31 through Aug. 20.

Miss Robertson has played bassoon for seven years and studied with Robert Wisneskey, renowned bassoonist with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, for five years.

A junior at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville majoring in music, she is the recipient of a four-year "Music Talent Award" there.

At SIUE, Miss Robertson is a member of the Symphonic Band, Orchestra and Woodwind Ensemble. She serves as president of the Mu Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

The Granite City musician plays clarinet and flute, as well as the bassoon, and has performed in orchestras for a number of musical productions at Granite City high schools and SIUE and with the Masquers theatrical organization.

She is a member of a Bassoon Quartet, which has been featured in numerous appearances at area shopping centers, concerts and in churches, including St. John United Church of Christ, where she is a member.

The quartet has been invited to perform while on tour in England and Scotland.

The Youth Orchestra will tour several cities, including London, Windsor, Oxford, Lake Windermere, Newcastle, Edinburgh, Bo'ness and Aberdeen. In Aberdeen, the area musicians will host the 1979 International Festival of Youth Orchestras.

The festival is scheduled to officially open Aug. 7 when all the participants will walk through the main streets of Aberdeen as part of the Festival Parade.

Miss Robertson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Robertson, 2386 O'Hare Ave. She has one brother, Derek, who will be a freshman this fall at Granite City High School South.

Smaller autos but bigger trucks?

Central States Resource Center

Illinois is under tremendous pressure to raise heavy truck weight to 80,000 pounds from the current 73,280 pound maximum. Governor Thompson and the General Assembly have resisted this pressure.

Our testing at the U.S. Transportation Department hearing at Chicago in mid-July on truck weight and length outline our views.

Larger trucks will decrease the life of Illinois roads by 20 to 35 percent, depending on the type involved. Rural roads, as usual, would suffer the most.

Contrary to claims, larger trucks would lead to use of more fuel.

The testimony follows: The truck size and weight (TS and W) issue encompasses a wide range of timely concerns including energy, environment, safety and highway damage.

The nation is rapidly approaching a major decision point on transportation matters. The railroads' track is in bad shape; major portions of the waterways system are approaching the end of their economic lives.

The interstate highway system is deteriorating, and primary, secondary and rural roads are in a state of disrepair. It is time to consider whether or not the nation can afford the investment in capital, labor and resources to replace or rebuild all these systems.

It is time to find ways to protect the investment we have in the existing transportation systems. We must determine which modes make the most sense in a future dominated by uncertain energy supplies.

Our comments are largely directed toward energy, safety, and road condition. Since railroads and long-haul trucks compete for many of the same commodities over similar routes, they are often compared.

We have generally avoided matters dealing with the economics of intermodal competition and regulation, since others are better able to comment on these matters. In general, we believe the modes should compete on a basis which allows them to stand or fall on their own merits.

We favor a system with either no subsidies or subsidies which are relatively equal. Likewise, we believe that modes which use a public right-of-way should operate under regulations designed to protect the public safety and investment.

Energy considerations rank at the top of the nation's concerns today. The efficient use of petroleum-based energy is seen as a major short-term goal and finding alternatives to oil a major long-term goal.

There are those who say that increased TS and W will conserve fuel by allowing more goods to be transported on the surface, this seems logical but needs further examination.

Studies by Peter Penner at the University of Illinois and U.S. DOT both conclude that railroads use approximately three times less fuel than trucks. The Penner study determined that the direct energy use of Class 1 railroads is 800 BTU's per ton-mile.

Direct energy use of regulated, private and owner operated trucks is 2580, 2780 and 1530 BTU's per ton-mile, respectively. The DOT found that railroads used 687 BTU's per revenue ton-mile while the trucks used 2161 BTU's.

A primary future consideration should be the overall energy demand of the various modes. Hannon and Benz address this question in a 1974 Science article. They compared the energy demand of spending five billion 1975 dollars on seven alternate programs.

Spending the money on highway construction would require six times the demand for refined petroleum as would a similar expenditure on railroad and mass transit construction.

Since the overall energy cost, and particularly the petroleum cost, of railroad construction and operation is substantially less than that required for trucks, the government should divert from rail to truck at this point.

An increase in TS and W will divert millions of tons of freight from the rails. Increased TS and W, therefore, is not in the national interest.

The Office of the Secretary of the DOT in 1978 essentially agreed with this position when it said:

"The rail freight mode is energy efficient and can be a significant asset in the effort to reduce overall energy consumption. Government policies that result in diversion of traffic to less energy efficient modes will hamper that effort."

Highways are dear to most Americans. A substantial portion of the nation's wealth has been invested in federal, state and local roadways. Many grand political battles at all levels of government have been waged over highway issues.

The road fund was the issue which kept the Illinois legislature tied up this year. It is generally agreed that our highways are deteriorating. Much of the interstate system is approaching the end of its 20-year design life.

Older secondary and primary roads are cracked and rural roads are often in dismal shape.

Three horrible winters have only worsened the situation in many states. We question the wisdom of increasing truck weights at a time when most governments, including the federal government, are mulling existing loads to repair and maintain the existing highways.

Agreements about the load-bearing capacity of sewer pavement are meaningless in the context of the current condition of the nation's highways. If engineers cannot agree on the amount of damage existing loads cause, this is no time to increase weights.

The DOT should be seeking ways to save the existing pavement, not wear it out faster.

In Illinois, major portions of 174, 140 and 157 as well as the Chicago expressways have major pavement damage. Heavier trucks cannot help but would certainly worsen this situation.

As highway maintenance costs escalate, the problem of road damage from increased truck weight becomes more acute.

A Federal Highway Administration notice of March 16, 1979, states that the 1978 nationwide cost trend figure for highway maintenance and operation is nearly 119 percent greater than the figure for 1967.

Actual physical maintenance costs are 85 percent of highway maintenance costs.

A number of state studies confirm increased road damage and additional highway expenditures as a result of increased truck weights.

The Illinois DOT in a 1977 statement in opposition to increased weights said that an increase to federal limits of 20,000 lb. single axle maximums and 34,000 lb. tandem axle maximums would reduce service life of pavement by 20 percent, from 20 years to 16 years.

Pavement thickness would have to be increased, with rehabilitation costs going up $5,000 per mile.

The situation is even worse for city, county and township roads, where pavement life would be reduced 35 percent.

Costs of highway rehabilitation would increase $67.2 million over five years, with additional annual maintenance costs of $26 million.

Finally, IDOT determined that 12,151 bridges in Illinois cannot safely carry 73,280 pounds, the maximum load limit now in effect. The cost for upgrading Illinois bridges to accommodate increased weights is over one billion dollars.

The Mississippi State Highway Commission in its 1974 special report on highway weight limits provides cost figures for new road building and rehabilitation to increase weight limits.

If maximum weights were increased from 18,000 to 20,000 lbs. (single axle loading) and from 20,000 to 34,000 lbs. (tandem axle loading), costs for new road construction would be increased $10,000 per mile.

Rehabilitation costs would increase $25,000 per mile for roads in good condition, and $50,000 for roads in poor condition.

The amount of damage done to roads as a result of increased weights has been found to be as high as 50 percent by the Minnesota Department of Highways.

Fifty percent more damage occurs with a 20,000 single axle load than with an 18,000 lb. single axle load.

In terms of pavement and undelay requirements, a heavy truck volume road needs 27 inches of pavement and undelay to last 15 to 20 years, as opposed to 12 inches needed for a high-volume passenger car road.

A California report done in 1976 also confirms pavement life reduction statistics. With an increase in truck weights, a 20 to 25 percent decrease in pavement life is expected.

In terms of which vehicles cause damage, the DOT found that 99 percent of California highway damage is caused by vehicles with a gross weight exceeding 6,000 pounds.

Highway safety is of particular concern to the motoring public. The current trend is toward even smaller cars and ever larger trucks. The combination is neither healthy nor desirable.

Large trucks do not mix well with cars. They slow down on uphill grades and gain speed and momentum on downhill grades.

A report of the Mississippi State Highway Commission states that a 10 percent increase in weight causes a truck to slow 25-28 miles per hour on a grade.

Vehicles traveling at the same speed have an accident rate of 50 per million miles. Vehicles traveling at a 30 mph difference have 10,000 accidents per million miles.

Passing long trucks on two-lane highways is nerve-racking under good conditions and dangerous at other times.

Trucks passing cars under rain and snow conditions throw enough snow and water to block vision. Likewise, the air disturbance of long trucks is dangerous to small cars.

The operational and maintenance characteristics of double and triple trailers should be carefully studied before lengths are generally increased. Adequate maintenance of multiple units may be beyond the capability of owner-operators and small firms.

An increase in TS and W will lead to increased road construction and maintenance. From an environmental point of view, this is wasteful, since the railroads now handle most of the traffic that would be diverted to trucks at less environmental cost.

New highways usually take new rights-of-way and displace many people from their homes. Railways have existing right-of-way capable of tremendous capacity expansions.

States have a legitimate right to object to higher weights. They paid part of the construction cost and bear the maintenance costs of the Interstate system.

The state and local governments must also pay upkeep on other roads damaged by heavy trucks leaving the interstate.

If Illinois allowed trucks to travel up to ten miles off the interstate for delivery purposes, they would have access to approximately 50 percent of the state.

Elements within the trucking industry are currently using economic problems brought about by the fuel crisis to force the country to give them weight and length increases that they have been unable to attain by legislative means during calmer times.

Their relief should come from an ICC ruling allowing them to pass their costs on to shippers. It is unfair for them to attempt to solve their problem by shifting the burden to the state road funds.

If uniform truck weights are desirable, they should be set at 73,280 lbs. Much if not most of the Interstate system was built when the limit was 73,280 lbs.

Other roads and bridges were not designed for the heavier weights in most states.

It makes sense to have the trucks fit the existing road conditions rather than try to force the roads to bear the trucks.

It appears 55 is here to stay, but that does not necessarily mean 80,000 cannot be rolled back. Rate adjustments can adequately compensate for the slower speeds.

Efforts to sell two Madison School District buildings because they will be phased out of operation by construction of the new Madison middle school will be held Friday at the two schools.

Public auctions are to be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at Dunbar School, Jackson and Third streets, and at 10:30 a.m. at the junior high school building, Third Street and Alton Avenue.

School Superintendent John Palchiff said the auctions will be held outside on the school sites.

Part of the new school is expected to be completed so that it may be used for academic purposes at the opening of the new school term this fall.

Arriving at a beauty shop at 4115 Tweed first St. at 9:45 p.m. Monday, officers allegedly saw a man inside struggling with a woman.

The man allegedly pushed the woman over a counter and began to choke her while she was holding a small child, police reported.

Police had gone to the scene in response to a call that glass was being broken.

The man inside the shop was Marion C. Hughes, 32, of 3040 Nameoki Drive, who came to the door and told officers the premises were private property.

His wife, Mrs. Rhonda K. Hughes, 23, of the same address, informed officers she was working on a friend's hair at the shop she rents when her husband kicked open the front door, breaking the glass panel and pulled her hair and arm.

He went back to the door and allegedly broke a second glass panel, she told officers, and then pushed his wife on to a couch and began choking her, saying "I'm going to kill you."

At that point, the police arrived, Mrs. Hughes said. A witness was in the shop at the time of the incident, officers reported.

Madison County was also allocated $40,626 as its share of the $8,313,064 allotted for townships and road districts.

Of the $10,233,404 for Illinois municipalities, Granite City received $48,146, Mason received $7,276 and Venice $4,836.

Probe mystery of missing 'body'

Madison County sheriff's deputies are investigating a mystery in which Mitchell residents have reported seeing what appeared to be a dead woman along the Madison County Nature Trail only to find the body gone when deputies arrived.

The latest incident occurred late last week when two Granite City area boys said they saw a white female, who appeared to be in her mid-30s, lying in a ditch face-down. The boys said they yelled at her, but she did not respond, so they rode their bicycles to a shop on East Chain of Rocks Road and the owner called deputies.

The boys took deputies to where they saw the woman, but she was gone and there were no signs of a body having been there. One deputy reported the boys were "very sincere" and did not appear to have been lying.

Two weeks earlier, three boys reported a nearly identical sighting in the same area. No evidence a woman had been lying there could be located.

Farm safety emphasized

By RON CORNWELL, County Farm Adviser

July 25 to 31 is Farm Safety Week. According to the National Safety Council, farm accidents claimed the lives of 5,700 farm and ranch residents in 1978. There also were 180,000 disabling injuries.

Unfortunately, farmers are not exempt from farm accidents. The accidents that have occurred in Madison County this past year are a part of the total mentioned above.

Farmers are confronted with many situations that can result in injury. This makes it important for each to be safety conscious.

The farmer needs to protect his eyes and lungs from chemicals and dust particles.

He must be especially careful not to injure a hand or foot in machinery. It is important for Madison County farmers to continually be alert to protect themselves against accidents.

Nothing at all happened this week

I don't believe it. Not a thing happened to write about this week. There is nothing worse for a columnist.

This has never happened to me before. Something ALWAYS happens. Either the kids get into something, or the dog, or I get into some sort of a mess. Not this week. Nothing. Zilch.

Needless to say, it has been quite a boring week. I watched a lot of TV, which is what I do when there's nothing to do.

I did read a good book this week, but nothing there I could have written about. In fact, it was a bit crated.

People ask me where I get the ideas I put in this column. I always tell them that they come from true life. What is funnier, or sillier, than true life?

Well, this week has been a drag. I have inflamed eyeballs from watching TV. Someone ought to pass a law against too much television.

This writing business gets a little rough at times, having to come up with ideas all of the time. I have to wonder what would happen if Erma would ever spend a week like the one I had.

The week was spent in quiet contemplation, mainly over what I was going to write about. I thought seriously about making something up. But then, you would all know if I did that.

As I sat, I wondered why the calamities that usually befall me and mine failed to materialize. I suppose most would count themselves lucky, but for me, when nothing happens, there's nothing for the column.

The most exciting thing that happened this week was the firing off of six bottle rockets, left over from the Fourth. But if I did a column about that, I would most likely be arrested, so I won't tell anybody about that.

Of course, if I were arrested it would make a great column, but it might be a little difficult to explain to my boss, who is a staunch, upstanding member of the community. (I know which side my bread is buttered on.)

Anyway, since nothing happened I have decided not to do a column this week. I just wanted you all to know the reason why.

Sister Judith, a new friend for Quad-Cityans

She laughs a lot, positively radiant whenever she is around people. You know the moment you meet Sister Judith Kmiec that you have made a new friend.

Sister Judith's friendly personality made her a perfect choice for her new job at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

They call her a patient representative, but even in the three short weeks she has been working in the emergency room, many Quad-Cityans already are calling her, "friend."

The 31 year old member of the Sisters of Divine Providence seems to have taken to her new job like a duck to water. Although she has no medical training, she brings a helpful touch to the emergency room's hectic, often traumatic, going on.

In times of trauma, the emergency room patient often needs the gentle comforting that Sister Judith provides. A soothing word, a touch, a small favor offered often help the patient to better cope with a frightening situation.

Sister Judith has taught high school students, worked in a parish developing religious education programs, and baked bread. Her new job brings her in contact with the public and she said that she loves it.

Among her charges there are the very young, many of whom come in with relatively minor injuries from falls out of trees or off of bicycles.

One such patient burst into tears when Sister Judith told him that he shouldn't worry, that soon he would be home and in his bed. "I don't think he liked the idea of going to bed," the sister remarked.

Part of Sister Judith's duties is to answer the questions asked by those who are waiting. "Most want to know why things take so long," she said. "I do my best to explain hospital procedure to them."

She said that when patients come in following drug and alcohol abuse, it bothers her the most. "I find it hard to understand why people do such things to themselves," she said.

If there are no patients in the emergency room to see to, Sister Judith changes sheets, checks supplies and does other kinds of orderly type tasks. She keeps busy until her services are called upon. When she is not working, Sister Judith enjoys painting, playing her guitar and taking pictures. She is also learning to play tennis.

Sister Judith said she really likes her new job, as well as the people she works with. And they all seem to like her.

It is easy to like someone who smiles so much.

She is a happy human being and that makes her a fine addition to the staff of hard working people in the emergency room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

"It is my job to provide a bit of comfort to the emergency room patient. A word, a touch, a small favor done seems to help."

"I told the little boy that soon he would be home in his own bed. He started screaming and crying. I don't think he liked the idea of going to bed."

"I have made many new friends already. Everyone who works here in the emergency room has made me feel welcome."

National Steel earnings improve, aided by cost cutting effort

National Steel Corporation on Monday afternoon in Pittsburgh reported earnings of $45.2 million, or $2.34 per share, for this year's second quarter, up 43 percent from the $31.5 million, or $1.64 per share, earned in last year's second quarter.

per share were the third highest of any single quarter in the corporation's 36-year history. Its divisions include Granite City Steel.

For the first half of 1979, National Steel earned $65.9 million, or $3.42 per share, compared with $34 million, or $1.77 per share, for the first half of 1978.

"It is encouraging that we have managed to achieve this improved level of earnings despite a continuing climb in the unit cost of virtually everything that we buy," George A. Stinson, chairman, said.

"Energy costs especially are skyrocketing, as are the costs resulting from government regulations."

"Nevertheless," he adds,

"we have benefited from a high level of operations at all of our plants, resulting from increased demand for our products during the second quarter."

"And we have seen major cost-control efforts offset some of the cost increases throughout the corporation. It is primarily because of these factors that we can report improved earnings today," Stinson said.

Looking ahead to the third quarter, Stinson said, National's order booking rates continue to be reasonably strong for most of the period.

He added that National Steel expects shipments to be at satisfactory levels in the third quarter.

"The fourth quarter is difficult to forecast because of the 'mixed bag' of economic signals."

"We can see some softening of orders from the automotive and certain other consumer markets, but see continued strength in capital goods and construction."

"Agricultural machinery, construction equipment, structural pipe and tubing, and railroad cars are expected to remain strong," Stinson said.

He added that the impact of a possible slackening in consumer demand in the fourth quarter would be somewhat offset by National's shift in market strategy to increase its share of capital goods and other markets.

"If a mild recession does occur, we expect it to have a relatively small impact on our steel business in the fourth quarter," said Chairman Stinson.

Raw steel production in the second quarter of this year set a 50-year corporate record, totaling 3.0 million net tons, while the quarter's shipments were 2.2 million net tons.

"This demonstrates the increased capacity made possible by our ongoing modernization programs. Last year, steel production for the quarter amounted to 2.6 million net tons, while shipments were 2.1 million net tons," he related.

Sales and other income for the second quarter of 1979 totaled $1.1 billion, a 22 percent increase over the $924.8 million reported in the second quarter of 1978.

In the first half of 1979, production totaled 5.7 million net tons, and shipments were 4.4 million net tons, compared with first half of 1978 production of 4.9 million net tons and shipments of 4.1 million net tons.

Sales and other income in the first half of 1979 amounted to $2.21 billion, a 25 percent increase over the $1.77 billion reported in the first half of 1978.

Stinson said he is concerned over the May surge in imports—up 54 percent over April levels.

"We will have to wait to see if this situation is temporary," representing possible hedge-buying against strong second quarter demand.

"However, if increased imports continue at higher levels when the economy is slowing down, this would have an adverse impact on steel operating rates, steel industry earnings, and the nation's balance of payments—none of which would be beneficial to the American economy."

The National Steel

chairman also said that the acquisition of United Financial Corporation of California is proceeding.

Applications have been filed, and are pending, with state and federal regulatory agencies.

Stockholders of United Financial will meet on Aug. 1, to consider the proposal for acquisition. It is expected that the acquisition could be completed as early as the fourth quarter of this year, Stinson said.

Most generous of all giving—anatomical gifts

With the advent in modern medicine of the possibilities of heart, kidney and other vital organ transplant, it has become increasingly necessary for legislatures and courts—in conjunction with the medical profession—to determine proper and humane procedures which allow for these lifesaving measures to be carried out.

At the same time, there is concern for safeguarding the interests and rights of both the potential "donee" and the donor and his or her family.

One approach which many states have taken in an attempt to prevent many of the complicated legal issues which could arise out of these new medical procedures is the adoption of the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act. Illinois adopted the Act in 1969.

According to the Illinois State Bar Association, the Act regulates such things as who may execute an anatomical gift, who may become donees and purposes for which anatomical gifts may be made, the manner of executing such gifts, and rights and duties of persons involved after the death of the donor.

Persons who may execute an anatomical gift:

1. Any adult of sound mind—the gift to take effect upon such person's death.
2. The following persons, in order of priority, may make the gift immediately before or after death:
  - a. The spouse.
  - b. Adult sons or daughters.
  - c. Adult brothers or sisters.
  - d. Guardian of the decedent.

If a gift by one of the above is opposed by a member of the same or a prior class, the donee cannot accept the gift.

Persons who may become donees and purposes for which anatomical gifts may be made:

1. Any hospital, surgeon or physician, for medical or dental education, research or transplantation.
2. Any accredited medical, chiropractic, mortuary or funeral home, college or university for education or research.

When gifts are made by an individual donor by will or written document, a copy of the document may be delivered either to the recipient or other facility that accepts it for safekeeping, in order to expedite procedures after death. But such delivery is not necessary to the validity of the gift.

The time of death shall be determined by a physician who attends the donor at death, or the physician who certifies death. In either case, such physician cannot participate in procedures for removing or transplanting a part.

Upon death of the donor, the donee may accept or reject the gift. But if it is accepted, the law provides that decedent donor's body be treated not only according to the terms of the gift, but humanely and with due

According to the ISBA, such gifts once authorized can be taken back. Authorization can be revoked by:

1. The delivery to the donee of a signed statement witnessed and certified.
2. A signed card carried on one's person or a signed document kept in one's effects which was witnessed and certified at a date subsequent to the date of the original gift.

Manner of executing anatomical gifts:

1. By will effective upon the death of the donor without waiting for probate.
2. By a written document made by donor other than will, effective upon death of the donor. The document—which may be a card designed to be carried on the person—must be signed by the donor in the presence of two witnesses.
3. Gifts made by family members must be made by a document signed by such family members or made by telegraphic or recorded, telephonic, or other recorded message.

When gifts are made by an individual donor by will or written document, a copy of the document may be delivered either to the recipient or other facility that accepts it for safekeeping, in order to expedite procedures after death. But such delivery is not necessary to the validity of the gift.

Rights and duties at death:

The time of death shall be determined by a physician who attends the donor at death, or the physician who certifies death. In either case, such physician cannot participate in procedures for removing or transplanting a part.

Upon death of the donor, the donee may accept or reject the gift. But if it is accepted, the law provides that decedent donor's body be treated not only according to the terms of the gift, but humanely and with due

BROTHERS AND BROTHERS - Beau (left) and Jeff Bridges will portray the Ford brothers in an upcoming western, "The Bandit Kings." But they're not the only ones. Other siblings recreating their relationships on the same picture are the Carradines as the Youngers and the Keach boys as Frank and Jesse James.

Ms. Blanc quit films when she married director Norman Foster whose early marriage to Claudette Colbert had been brief. The Blanc-Foster union, however, endured. So does that of Loretta Young's younger sister, Georgi, who gave a movie career only a quickie whirl before embarking on her long and happy marriage to Ricardo Montalban, the mysterious Mr. Roarke of ABC's "Fantasy Island."

Shirley MacLaine and her equally famous brother, Warren Beatty are truly devoted. As Ms. MacLaine told us in an interview two years ago - and as she told startled onlookers at the last Oscars - she's quite proud of her sibling both personally and professionally.

With Richard and Bronwyn

Thomas, so far it is he who carried the family to fame. But if the former John-Boy of Walton's Mountain gets his fondest wish, Bronwyn, too, will become a major star in her field: ballet.

Last month Bronwyn won a bronze medal in a ballet competition which may bring her offers from major ballet companies. Until the medal, however, Bronwyn needed showcasing and to help, Richard donned tights and did a turn with the ballet troupe operated by his parents (an offshoot of their dancing school).

It was a brave thing for him to do because he was out of training, but it did bring some people who might not have come otherwise. Including a major critic. Laughs Richard. "He roasted me, but I certainly don't care, because he loved Bronwyn ... and that's what matters."

Sir John Mills once told us that though his two actress daughters - Haley and Juliet Mills - had very dissimilar personalities, he was glad that, in essence, they were "best friends." All three were gathered together for a recent "Love Boat" program ... a lark, though their roles did not inter-relate.

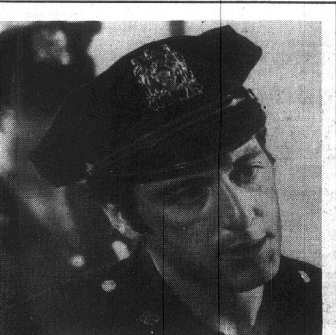

Presumably one of the most loving of show business families, as well as the largest, is that of the Osmonds. And it jolly well better stay that way to assure their shared prosperity. In addition to the highly visible Donny and Marie, and the other brothers who surface from time to time in television specials, there are the behind-the-scenes brothers who run the family's production studios off in Provo, Utah.

The greatest variety of brothers - all second-generation actors, by the way - will be seen on movie screens next year in "The Bandit Kings."

Stacy Keach has just withdrawn from his Broadway play to co-star in it with his brother James Keach as Jesse and Frank James. (It's not the first time the Keachs have played brothers. On TV last year they co-starred as aviation pioneers, Wilbur and Orville Wright.)

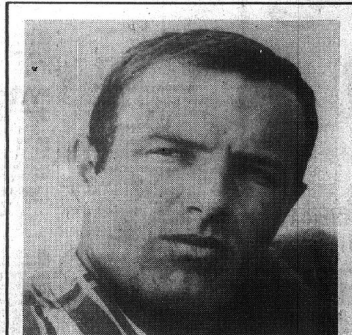

But getting back to "The Bandit Kings," three Carradines - David, Robert and Keith - will play the Younger Brothers. Two Bridges - Jeff and Beau - will portray the Fords.

TV People

In March of 1978 Don Drysdale, one of the outstanding pitchers in recent National League history, came to ABC Sports as the third man in the booth on "ABC's Monday Night Baseball."

Drysdale starred for 14 years with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, winning 209 games, the most won by any Dodgers pitcher in history. Following his retirement from baseball after the 1969 season, Drysdale turned to sportscasting. Expo games on Canadian television.

Later, after a year with the Texas Rangers, he joined the California Angels in 1973, and continues to broadcast California games except on Monday nights when he is performing broadcast duties for ABC Sports' baseball series.

His broadcasting career has not been limited to baseball. He has covered golf tournaments and also has served as one of the announcers for World Championship Tennis. In addition, he covered football's Los Angeles Rams for four years on radio.

In his major league career as one of the game's most respected righthanders, Drysdale compiled a 2.95 earned run average. He participated in five World Series and was named to nine National League All-Star teams.

He set a record by pitching six straight shutouts and a total of 58 2/3 consecutive scoreless innings in 1965.

In the most recent Hall of Fame election, in which only Eddie Mathews qualified for induction, Drysdale received more votes than any other pitcher on the ballot.

Drysdale makes his home in Rancho Mirage, California, outside Palm Springs, with his wife of 20 years, Ginger. They have one daughter, Kelly.

Art Hindle is surrounded by three wives - two past, one present - in "The Three Wives of David Wheeler," one of four comedies on Battle of the Sexes, Wednesday, Aug. 1, on NBC.

Illinois coal use a priority—Dixon

Alan J. Dixon, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, said this week that, if elected, he would make the use of Illinois coal a major priority.
"Our destiny must be returned to the hands of the working men and women of America, and out of the clutches of foreign oil barons," Dixon said.
"Our nation is being crippled by its dependence on foreign oil and it's time Washington spoke up. There is another choice. That choice is Illinois coal."
"I have been promoting Illinois coal since 1951, when
providing for its increased utilization," Dixon said.
"As your secretary of state, I instituted a program to burn Illinois coal in state buildings at an annual subsidy of 2,000,000 gallons of fuel.

"The entire oil reserve in the Middle East represents only 2,000 quads of energy (One quad is equal to one quadrillion BTU's). In Illinois alone, we have 3,200 quads of energy in our proven coal reserves," Dixon said.

"America's future depends on the utilization of coal, and the time to begin is now. We must be vigilant with respect to the environment. Along with the challenge of coal usage, comes the responsibility for the air we breathe, the water we drink and the land we use. We can and we will be responsible," Dixon said.

Dixon said that the current price of foreign oil is about $22 a barrel, and it has been estimated that oil can be produced from coal for about $25 per barrel.

"I'm tired of an unemployment rate of nearly 6 percent, and I'm tired of an inflation rate of more than 10 percent. Let's put our people back to work and reduce the deficit in our balance of payments. I'm tired of our hard earned money going to foreign countries when it could be spent here in Illinois."

Dixon outlined a program of action which included the following points:

1. Make a long-term commitment to support development of a synthetic fuel industry and streamline the approval process for obtaining permits for locating synthetic fuel industries in Illinois.

2. Extend the 10 percent investment tax credit provided by the Energy Tax Act of 1978 beyond the current expiration date of 1982.

3. Provide for accelerated capital recovery of investment in coal conversion, production and usage.

4. Avoid federal excise
thetic fuels.

5. Provide a temporary subsidy through either a guaranteed purchase or guaranteed minimum price for synthetic fuel products.

"The road of American progress should not be paved with empty promises and empty foreign oil barrels, but rather with full employment and full utilization of our natural resources,"
Dixon said.

2 arrests in disturbance

John W. Stamps, 19, of 1721
Spring Ave., and Brian Gaddie, 18, of 4040 Division Ave., were arrested during the weekend as the result of a disturbance growing out of a party at the Spring Avenue address and an earlier incident that allegedly involved a car which police said was driven by Gaddie.

Three occupants of a car told police that a car had stolen their auto out of the road and that they followed the car which led to Stamps' home. As they arrived, police were told, Gaddie got out of his car allegedly carrying a tire iron and a number of people came out of the house. The car occupants said the people from the house stood in front of their car and wouldn't let it pass.

Alfred Baits Jr., one of the three persons in the car, alleged Gaddie struck him.
Police, meanwhile, had been called to the area because of loud music at a party and officers arrived on the scene as the car was being blocked by the party participants.

Authorities said they talked to Stamps who told them the party was breaking up and things would quiet down. Police said the music resumed, however, and some of the people went back in the house. Stamps was charged with disorderly conduct and Gaddie was charged with battery. Both were released later on bonds of $100 each.

$600 HOME BURGLARY

A black and white television, a portable radio and jewelry, all having a total value of $600, were stolen from the home of JESSIE HOLMAN, 1302 Kirkpatrick Homes, during the weekend. Police said a screen was forced from a window to gain entry.

HORSESHOE LAKE in its present state of development is partially open to boats with up to 10 horsepower motors. The portion of the lake open to boats is shown in the circled area near the top of this map, provided by Illinois Conservation officials. Two public boat ramps are at the upper right, near Sandy Lake. Bank fishing also is allowed along the lake road shown just below State Aid Route 35.

Fort de Chartres demonstration

Colonial wood working and pottery, vital keys to the life of early settlers of the area, are among demonstrations to take place at Fort de Chartres Sunday at 1 p.m.
Gerry Franklin in his demonstration turns table legs and other articles of 18th century furniture with a great wheel and lathe. The French style great wheel and lathe handbuilt by Mr.
Franklin are in themselves works of art, a spokesman said.

1979 AUTO STOLEN

A brown 1979 Chevrolet
Malibu owned by Billy Joe Wade, Rural Route Six,
Edwardsville, was stolen from the K-Mart parking lot here last week, it was reported to police. Wade told officers he was walking toward his car when he saw it driven away by a man in a white shirt.

There have to be good reasons why more in-sink-erator disposers are sold and installed every year than any other make.
Our grinding ring, for example, is the strongest made. It's the core of our disposers along with our own ISE-made electric motor.
Then we add the extra things. A tough polypropylene shield protects against interior corrosion. Automatic reversing. Apartment users: the life of the grinding elements.
So ask for in-sink-erator next time. To make your mess less... we make our disposers do more.

The Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence will be able to continue its anti-domestic violence work through the receipt of over $1 million in federal funds from Governor James Thompson's Title XX Local Initiative Fund.
The federal monies, administered through the Illinois Department of Public Aid, will allow the coalition to maintain its administrative operation, to provide subcontracts to centers around the state, and to open five new battered women's shelters.
Under the governor's Local Initiative Fund, community-based groups are required to raise 25 percent of local matching money, for which a 75 percent federal match is returned by the state.
Ten percent of a total of $200 million from Title XX is being set aside by the governor for this donated funds initiative.
It was through the 3-for-1 match that the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence last year was able to help nine cities (Alton, Aurora, Chicago, Elgin, Park Forest, Peoria, Springfield, Summit and Urbana) to begin providing such services.
Under the fiscal year 1980 grant, these nine cities will receive continued financing at least to the year's level. Additionally, the coalition is working with five more cities, which are planning to begin operations of domestic violence shelters this year in their communities.
The coalition—statewide, with headquarters in Springfield—was founded in January 1978 when representatives of ten organizations met to explore the possibility of seeking a unified funding source for anti-domestic violence programs.
The coalition incorporated in October of the same year and subsequently signed two contracts with the Illinois Department of Public Aid for local initiative funding.
Over $400,000 was approved for the second part of FY 79 by the department, allowing funding to the coalition to help provide shelter and counseling services through its members, which are private, non-profit social service agencies located all over the state. It also provided funding and staff for the Springfield headquarters.
Since its formation, the coalition has grown in membership and now has 13 member organizations and 13 potential member groups.
Goals are to eliminate domestic violence and provide a statewide network of services to family-abuse victims.
These services are to be comprehensive and locally-based, to enable victims and their dependent children to help develop self-confidence, self-sufficiency and self-protection. Through these goals, the member agencies hope to prevent a cycle of dependency and to interrupt an intergenerational cycle of abuse.
As of June 1979, Margaret Foley, executive director of ICADV, estimates that its agencies have provided special and rehabilitative services to 2,000 persons many of whom have been women and children in need of protection and/or under immediate threat of physical harm.
"In fiscal year 1980," she adds, "we project that we will serve 9,000 adults and children, nearly all of whom will be low-or-marginal-income persons."

Oasis Women's Center of Alton has been a member of the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence since its beginning and has received Title XX funds through the coalition since December 1978.
Oasis offers shelter, counseling and other social services to abused women and their children from Madison County and nearby counties.
"While waiting, the family secret is protected for generations, is definitely out in the open these days," wrote Bruce Chapman for the Prairie Farmer magazine.
In the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women Newsletter, State Rep. Susan Catania (R, Chicago), who has repeatedly sponsored anti-domestic violence legislation, reported, "The statistics given to us by the FBI are staggering. Half of all wives have been beaten at least once in their married lives by husbands, and 125,000 American women are regularly beaten by the men with whom they live. These are only the reported cases. 'Forty percent of the women held in Chicago's Cook County Jail last year on homicide charges had been repeatedly battered by the men they are charged with killing. In other words, the reported domestic violence cases, the women are pregnant.'"
"To help aid domestic violence victims and their families, three pieces of legislation passed the Assembly in February of this spring session. HB 1754 will amend the Illinois Police Training Act to require the curriculum for probationary police officers to include training in techniques for response and investigation of domestic violence and sexual assault.
This legislation, when signed into law by Gov. Thompson, is intended to not only help the victims get immediate protection and assistance required, but also train law enforcement officers in the handling of family disputes. Police officers are injured more often when responding to domestic violence calls than to any other type of police call.
Another bill, HB 1580, will amend the Criminal Identification and Investigation Act to require all law enforcement agencies to report domestic crimes. This legislation is called a "key" to future planning for handling of family abuse situations for both the state and the local agencies working to solve this problem in Illinois.
For the present, until more training begins taking place and more accurate statewide statistics are available for comprehensive and preventive planning, member groups of the Illinois Coalition Against Domestic Violence will be able to continue their work of providing shelter and counseling for victims with the help of the more than $1 million in Title XX Local Initiative Funds.
